Churchill Said Of Harriman—

In the forthcoming volume of Winston Churchill's majestic literary tapestry of war memoirs, there is a line in the text of the fantastic 1942 visit to Moscow in which the Prime Minister and Joseph Stalin had it out, which reads: "(Averell) Harriman backed me up throughout, and we neither of us yielded an inch nor spoke a bitter word."

The sentence is a fitting and descriptive testimonial to William Averell Harriman, who for a long span of years has given himself and his very considerable abilities to public service. That the managing editors of American newspapers, in their national convention in Atlanta, scheduled a policy talk by him, should result in improved understanding.

He has been attacked, of course, by the small clique of columnists and commentators who among other things, have never forgiven either Roosevelt or his chief aides their intellectual superiority, and whose permanently irritated vanities are the more poisoned for the simple reason that few persons have ever paid any substantial heed to their unceasing accusations.

Service

Averell Harriman has been Ambassador to Great Britain and to Russia. He has served as Secretary of Commerce and on countless high diplomatic missions. Nowhere, from all those in and out of the administration, in the armed services or in delegations from foreign countries, has there been a single man to say that Averell Harriman did not at all times do his full duty and do it well.

He is not a mercurial man, but the pages of the many books dealing with great events of the war from soldiers, diplomats and newspaper correspondents, almost invariably include grateful and complimentary references to some contribution of value by Harriman.

He was ambassador to the Soviet Union during the war years. He did well a tedious, maddening job. He learned so well the techniques of the Soviet imperialists that he has been of invaluable assistance to subsequent ambassadors and missions. For this the Soviets have denounced him as a warmonger and a vassal of Wall Street.

Willing

Few men of independent means are willing to endure the criticism, the petty carping, the skillful twisting of facts to produce distorted impressions, and the pitiless scourging by those who earn their living by it and who, having begun by excess of it, must go on and on to more and more irresponsible and vicious accusations in order to keep up the diet of raw meat which their readers or listeners expect.

Harriman has been, and is, willing.

The critics conveniently forget how difficult and unrewarding it is to assume great public responsibility.

He has an intelligent, painstaking approach to something almost new in American life. It may safely be said that until 1917 our foreign policy was merely the word isolationism. This was natural and inevitable. Europe was far away.

Teddy Roosevelt sent the fleet around the world. His foreign policy was, "Speak softly, but carry a big stick." There was a certain facetious quality to it. It was an ideal policy for a burgeoning nation, far away from the implications of Europe. China was in the hands of the great powers. True there was talk of the Yellow Peril and the sleeping dragon was said to be about to open his eyes. And the Japanese were becoming much less polite. But foreign policy was something for foreigners, not Americans.

The plain truth is that since we have had to have a foreign policy, we have learned it is almost impossible for us to possess one.

During the recent years of grievous war and the present days of awesome decisions, only the great, patriotic statesmanship of Senator Arthur Vandenberg has allowed us to have what stability of bi-partisan policy we have managed.

American foreign policy, because of our form of government, is of necessity daily in the forum and the market place of appropriations.

It is subject to the attack of any honest man and of any demagogue, ignorant or dishonest or both.

Foreign policy is a contest in which the toil is dirty and severe, with the bleacher crowds forever yelling, "take him out."

He is a valuable American.

Shooting Here Kills Joe Veale

Emory Guard Is Hunted For Questioning in Slaying

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Joe Veale, widely known former restaurant operator, was killed late Wednesday and DeKalb County officers sought a guard at Emory University for questioning in connection with the slaying.

DeKalb Chief Hoyt Sutton said the guard was involved in a shooting earlier in the night at an Atlanta beer parlor.

The shooting of Veale came to light, Sutton said, when an automobile whipped up to the Clermont Road entrance to the Naval Air Station shortly before midnight. The driver beckoned to the officer on duty and said: "My buddy had a heart attack. I've got to get help."

When the officer came over to investigate, the driver jumped out and fled.

Veale, manager of the American Legion Post at Chamblee, died soon after being admitted to Lawson General Hospital. Sutton said he had two pistol-shot wounds in the chest.

Witnesses at the Chamblee Club, where the Emory guard was a frequent visitor, said the guard and Veale left in Veale's auto at approximately 10 p. m. Sutton said the guard's auto was left parked near the Legion building.

Nothing more was heard from the guard and Veale until Veale, critically injured, was deposited before the naval air station gate.

DeKalb officers immediately rushed bloodhounds to the air station in an attempt to pick up a trail. Officers were stationed about the guard's home in Southeast Atlanta and at the Chamblee Legion post.

The guard was recognized as the man who left the Legion post with Veale, Sutton related. He said the man also was a frequent visitor to the Atlanta beer parlor, where the shooting occurred earlier and was known there.

Dets. R. C. Pendley and M. W. Blackwell said the guard, wearing a "special officer badge earlier in the night, had entered a restaurant at 174 Spring St., N. W., and without provocation struck Fred Lowery, 503 Hill St., S. E. Witnesses said he then drew a pistol and threatened to "shoot up the place."

Ejected by four men, the guard returned five minutes later and drew the gun a second time, detectives were told. Again a group of customers pushed him out on the sidewalk.

Witnesses said the man fired five shots at Frank Garrison, Jr., 29, of Hapeville one of the group involved in ejecting him from the restaurant. Garrison, a bell hop at a downtown hotel, was not injured.

Garrison refused to discuss the beer-parlor shooting, Pendley and Blackwell related. They said he was booked for drunk and disorderly conduct-failure to move on when he ignored a warning to leave the establishment.

He is scheduled for trial at 4 p. m. Thursday in recorder's court.

Detectives said they received information that the same guard was involved in a previous shooting episode at the beer parlor a week ago. They added no report was made on the incident at the time.

Well known in Atlanta restaurant circles, Veale was a former manager of the Druid Hills Country Club. Two years ago he opened an elaborate night club-restaurant at 222 Spring St., N. E., a site now used by an American Legion post.

Veale was manager of the Chamblee Legion Post Clubhouse at the time of his death. His wife is manager of the Harold Byrd Post Clubhouse at Avondale Estates. He was listed as a resident of Indian Creek Dr., Avondale.

Court Order Delays CBS Color TV

CHICAGO, Nov. 15—(AP)—Commercial color telecasting will not start next Monday as scheduled, a three judge Federal Court panel ruled Wednesday.

The judges said they needed more time — possibly another month or more—to decide whether to approve or override a Federal Communications Commission order authorizing use of a color system developed by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The court issued a temporary restraining order that prevents CBS from putting its color television programs on the air until the formal court ruling.

A temporary injunction to block the CBS color telecasts had been sought by Radio Corporation of America. RCA contended the CBS color system was inferior and would cost present owners of black and white sets $1,500,000,000 to convert to that system of color.

The ruling, however, merely is a stop-gap order that retains the status quo while the court studies the evidence put before it in the last two days.

Samuel N. Rosenman of New York, CBS counsel, told the court earlier that the FCC "couldn't afford to wait" when it gave CBS the go-ahead for color telecasting starting Nov. 20.

By Monday, he estimated, 9,000,000 black and white TV receiving sets will be in the hands of the public. He estimated this number would increase at the rate of 800,000 a month.

"One way to kill color is to put out so many (black and white) sets that the sheer weight of the number in operation will be fatal to color," he said.

The temporary order will be signed Thursday, after lawyers for both sides work out the language.

Cobb Approves School Bonds

MARIETTA, Nov. 15—Cobb County voters Wednesday approved a $1,500,000 school bond issue by 2,907 to 841 votes.

Bonds will be issued to construct four new consolidated high schools in the County and to make vital improvements in almost every school in the system.

The bonds were defeated in three of the 19 precincts voting. Acworth balloted against the bonds, 218 to 192. The County School Board last week voted to close Acworth High School in favor of a consolidated high school to be located midway between Kennesaw and Acworth. The Acworth Citizens Committee plans to appeal the decision to the State School Board.

Trolleymen To Abide By Fingerprinting Law

By BILL DIEHL

Atlanta's transit operators voted Wednesday night to comply with the hotly debated city permit ordinance, climaxing a year-long battle against the law requiring them to be fingerprinted, photographed and licensed.

They will report to police station for permits beginning late Thursday or Friday.

The transit union's decision followed almost a week of strike rumors, threats and counter-threats. Most heated issue was whether the City has the power to license trolley and taxi operators and require them to pay a $3 fee.

Union leader Jesse Walton said the operators agreed to submit to the ordinance rather than "inconvenience the public or the Atlanta Transit Company."

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins Wednesday prepared for the intricate task of fingerprinting almost 1,300 men, interviewing them and issuing licenses. He said the police station could handle about 30 men a day.

Mayor Hartsfield commented the entire procedure would be 'administered fairly and without any injustice or political prejudice."

The ordinance was the subject of both state and federal court action until the U. S. Supreme Court refused to hear the case. That action, in effect, approved the law.

The transit union alleged throughout the court fights that the city becomes "employer" of the union through its authority to grant and revoke licenses. They also objected to the fingerprint clause.

"We've never actually objected to the fingerprinting or photographing itself," Walton said Wednesday. "We just didn't think it was right to empower one man (in this case the chief of police) with the right to deny or allow any man to work." Final permit decision rests in the hands of Chief Jenkins.

Free World Is Stronger —Harriman

Ex-Envoy to Russia Says Democracies Must Mobilize

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

William Averell Harriman, former ambassador to Russia and Great Britain and now President Truman's top adviser - at - large, said here Wednesday night the free world is "vastly stronger, potentially, than Russia—and all that faces us is the job of mobilizing that strength."

Pursuing the United Nations' announced policy of rearmament "with persistence and vigor" is the answer to world security at the moment, Harriman declared shortly after he arrived in Atlanta to address the 17th annual meeting of Associated Press Managing Editors. He will speak to the editors and their wives at 1:30 p. m. Thursday on "Our Role in World Security."

'It's going to be a long pull," the presidential aide said. "We're going to have to make up our minds to live in a dangerous world for some time to come. We are not at war with Communist China now. Chinese foreign policy is not clear. It is being studied by the UN. We are ready to protect the Chinese border. The Chinese, of course, are putting up a pretense that their mobilization at the border is a group of volunteers, which gives them more freedom of movement."

While the UN studies the delicate matter of Chinese Communist intentions, the United States . . . as the "strong country" of the UN . . . must proceed rapidly with rearmament, and extend aid to equip and strengthen her allies, Harriman said. He specified that he does not mean the kind of rearmament which followed Pearl Harbor—"That was all-out war" —but the program authorized by the last Congress.

A deficiency allocation will be asked of Congress at the next session and President Truman will ask a greatly increased appropriation in January to extend the rearmament program, Harrison said.

In answer to questions about the effect of Republican victories in Congressional races in the recent elections, Harriman said he was "firmly of the opinion that we have got to be bipartisan on our foreign policy," and that every effort must be made to strengthen and develop bipartisan policies in the future.

Harriman, heir to a railroad fortune, who has flown all over the world on presidential errands since the beginning of World War II, lightly parried questions that he is being considered for the post of Secretary of State.

"Mr. Acheson is Secretary of State," he said, smilingly broadly. "And he will continue to be."

Harriman succeeded Henry Wallace as Secretary of Commerce in 1946. He pointed out Wednesday night that his first criticisms of Russia in a "background talk" in May, 1945, brought down an avalanche of criticism on his head.

"They said if I felt that way

Husband Kills Wife, Jacksonville Official

PALATKA, Fla., Nov. 15—(AP)—Jacksonville City Commissioner R. D. Sutton and his married sweetheart were blasted to death in a lonely cabin Wednesday by her husband who caught them together in bed.

The dead woman was Mrs. J. P. McRae, 33.

Sheriff W. J. Revels said McRae, 34, Jacksonville trucking firm head, learned of the tryst and waited for them in hiding at Sutton's cabin.

He emerged from the cabin after the shooting, said "It's all over now," and collapsed of a heart attack.

McRae was taken to Palatka jail, then to a hospital. His condition was described as "fair."

A guard was placed over McRae in the hospital and ordered to remain until a coroner's verdict.

Sutton, 39, was elected commissioner in charge of public safety in 1947. He was a City Council member before World War II. He had a son, Charles.

A coroner's jury heard three witnesses, then adjourned to study the evidence for a week or 10 days.

The events which led to the shooting were described by A. G. McRae, brother of J. P. McRae; and W. F. Browning and J. P. Carter, of Palatka, friends of the McRaes.

Browning testified first and his story was corroborated by A. G. McRae and Carter.

Browning testified:

"Mr. McRae telephoned me this morning about 9:30 and told me that Mrs. McRae and Sutton were going to Sutton's cottage (near Gin House Lake about 25 miles from Palatka). He said he wanted Carter and me to go there and take pictures for some evidence.

"We got there. A little later the two McRaes came. We hid in some bushes about 100 feet from the cabin. Then Mr. J. P. McRae went to the cabin and opened the back door which was not locked and went in. I saw his silhouette across the porch as he went into the house.

"A minute or so passed and I heard two shots.

"Mr. A. G. McRae then went to the house. Just then J. P. McRae came out. He collapsed in the yard.

"Carter took him to Interlachen and called Sheriff W. J. Revels."

A. G. McRae testified that as he got to his brother, the other muttered "it's all over now."

Sheriff Revels said he believed one blast killed both Sutton and Mrs. McRae.

Mrs. Sutton was reported visiting in the west.

Mrs. McRae told friends Wednesday morning she was going to a meeting of the PTA, an organization in which she was active. Her son, Joel, is 16.

Bugsy Murder Linked To Race Wire War

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15—(INS)—The possibility that Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel's unsolved gangland murder in 1947 stemmed from a racing service war was indicated Wednesday by Sen. Estes Kefauver at his crime committee's session in the Nevada gambling city of Las Vegas.

Kefauver said one week after "Bugsy" was shot, Morris Rosen, New York underworld figure, "moved in" on Siegel's extensive Las Vegas bookmaking enterprises.

Allies Pressing General Blow; Chinese Move

North Koreans Reinforce With East Coast Landing

By RALPH C. TEATSORTH

TOKYO, Thursday, Nov. 16—(UP)—United Nations forces surged forward at dawn Thursday in a general attack all along the Northwest front to fill up the void left by mysteriously withdrawing Chinese Communists.

But on the east coast, North Korean Communists reinforced their positions with a seaborne landing of nearly 1,000 men to join enemy troops that drove back the Republic Capitol Division two and a half miles.

Front dispatches said the U. S. 24th Division, the British Commonwealth Brigade and the 1st, 6th, 7th and 8th South Korean divisions opened drives to expand the western anchor of the UN battleline.

On the extreme left end of the line the Commonwealth Brigade and 24th Division units began advancing to enlarge their Chongchon River bridgehead.

East of the American and British units, the South Korean 1st Division shoved off at dawn and by 11 a. m. had driven nearly three miles north and northwest between Pakchon and the Yellow Sea coast. They were meeting no opposition.

Three South Korean divisions attacked northward along the central front after making advances up to two miles against heavy resistance Wednesday. A 9th corps spokesman said the ROK 6th and 7th Divisions were gaining despite Communist counterattacks and took bitterly contested high ground north of the east-west highway linking Tokchon and Kunuri.

The Eighth ROK Division sent infantrymen up on the rugged hills north of ruined Tokchon, 20 miles east of the Chongchon River line, against dug in and well-armed Communist forces which were standing their ground and fighting.

On the eastern end of the line, units of the U. S. 7th Infantry Division pushed into the outskirts of the key transport hub of Kapsan, 20 miles from the Manchurian border, as North Koreans landed some 55 miles away.

A Communist battalion described as a Marine training unit landed 25 miles south of the big northeast coast port of Chonjin.

Marine fighter-bombers burned a path ahead of 7th Division troops with a fire bomb attack that wiped out one-third of the town of Kapsan. North Korean and Chinese Communists have concentrated there to block the United Nations drive.

The Communists lashed back with the amphibious landing that raised the total of Red forces blocking the South Koreans drive toward Siberia to an estimated seven or eight battalions — upwards of 8,000 men.

The North Koreans, seeking to smash the right flank of the ROK capitol division, counterattacked for the fourth straight day and pushed the Republicans back 2½ miles before they were checked six to eight miles northeast of Myongchon.

U. S. B-29s "completely wiped out" the North Korean border city of Hoeryong, a supply and communications center, in a 30-plane strike Wednesday. The B-29s dropped 40,000 incendiary bombs on Hoeryong, only 40 miles from the Soviet border and less than a mile across the narrow Tumen River from Red China.

Reds Rap U.S. 'Attack' On Plane

Charge France's Thorez Imperiled

BERLIN, Nov. 15—(U.P.)—The Russians charged angrily Wednesday night that an American jet fighter plane "attacked" a Soviet plane flying France's No. 1 Communist leader to Moscow by making passes at it as it flew over the United States occupation zone.

Maj. Gen. Vassily Chuikov, chairman of the Soviet Control Commission, said in a letter of protest to United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy that the alleged "attack" constituted "a deliberate provocation" and asked "severe punishment of the culprits."

Maurice Thorez, ailing French Communist leader, was flown to Moscow from Paris last Saturday via the American occupation zone for clinical treatment after he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Chuikov alleged that the American plane, an F-84 Thunderjet, flew within 10 meters (33 feet) of the Soviet plane, darted away and came back again.

"At this moment our plane disappeared in the clouds," Chuikov said.

According to a United States Air Force spokesman at the Wiesbaden plane base, this was what really happened:

The Russians had notified American authorities of the Thorez flight. But the plane failed to check in with the base when it passed. It was picked up on radar screens.

A Thunderjet was sent up to check it. It never approached within less than 500 feet and went that close only because it was cloudy and there were 16 other planes in the air around Frankfurt at the time, and close observation was necessary for identification.

Tears Freeze on Cheeks As GIs Face 20 Below

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN

HWANGSUWON, Korea, Nov. 15—(UP)—The mercury was flirting with 20 below zero Wednesday when the men of the U. S. 7th Division pushed off on operation snowcap.

That's what they called the push that they hoped would carry to the Manchurian border and settle the race for that goal on the northeastern flank of the United Nations line.

I watched the shoveoff from this tiny crossroads village just south of the 7th's Ungi River line. The village huddles on a plateau of this North Korean highland.

It was so cold that the numbing zing stabbed right through double layers of clothing, through parkas and shoepack and wool-lined field jackets and earmuff hats.

It was so cold many vehicles refused to start at all, even when they were hauled by other trucks and wreckers. It was a cold that defied modern equipment.

The Yanks, their eyes streaming involuntary tears sucked forth by the cold, charged back and forth among stalled vehicles and tools of war to roaring bonfires where they recaptured some degree of warmth.

The tears started down the American cheeks but never ran off. They froze there.

The wind whipping across the plateau picked up tiny particles of frozen snow and threw them like midget penknives into the faces of the troops.

Trucks broke through thick layers of ice on mountain streams. Many soldiers got no hot breakfast because field ranges froze up during the night.

On the winding mountain trails, self-propelled guns and anti-aircraft pieces were stalled, their radiators steaming or their crews thawing out by hastily built roadside fires.

The Americans cursed the cold. They cursed Korea. They cursed the Army. But they kept on going.

Appeasing Red China Could Null Our Gains

Touchiest Foreign Policy Decisions Facing Nation

By JAMES RESTON
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—The United States is now confronted with the most delicate series of foreign policy decisions since the start of the Korean war. And, unfortunately, it appears they are going to be made in an unusually sharp political atmosphere in Washington.

For over a year, the Truman Administration, goaded by the Republican opposition, has tried to avoid dealing with the Chinese Communists, but the general feeling here is that it can do so no longer.

Communist China must be neutralized but one provocative action by the United States could produce a major conflict, while appeasement, on the other hand, could easily nullify many or all of the gains made by the United Nations in the entire Korean conflict.

The struggle within the administration on how to deal with this problem is acute. The dangers of failure are immense. The comparative weakness of the United Nations forces, and the extent of their obligations all over the world, are exasperating. It is a situation of extreme gravity and it is vastly complicated by the fact that even our most secret intelligence reports about the intentions of the Chinese Communists are unusually contradictory.

Some of these reports suggest that Red China is acting in self-defense, that it had no confidence that the United Nations forces would stop at the Manchurian border, and therefore moved to defend its frontier with Korea and the very considerable source of Manchurian electric power which is generated along the Yalu River.

Other reports, however, see in the recent activities of Red China a recklessness which suggests that they are engaged in operations designed to drive the United Nations troops out of Korea and to carry out a far wider and more aggressive strategy devised in Moscow.

Yet another series of reports reaches the quite contrary conclusion that the Chinese Communists, disturbed by the infiltration of the Russian Communists in Manchuria, have taken advantage of the advance of the United Nations troops in order to move Red China's power into position to defend the sovereignty of China against the Russians.

Until the events on the field of battle clarify Communist China's real intentions, therefore, the policy here is to proceed with caution, to reassure Peiping that any legitimate interest of China in defense of its frontier or its sources of electrical power can be negotiated, but at the same time to take emergency action to prepare for a larger conflict if the Communists seek to impose their will upon the United Nations.

In this situation, Secretary of State Acheson has a particularly delicate operation to perform, for he is trying, not only to limit the hostilities and conserve the limited resources of the United States, but to oppose aggression without dividing the Allied coalition.

The political pressures within the United States at the present time are not making this task any easier. Though the British and the French and the Indians, among others, have shown some anxiety that he has been following too bold a policy toward the Chinese Communists, Acheson is under attack at home as an appeaser of the Chinese Communists.

It is difficult to estimate what effect, if any, the recent political attacks on Acheson have had in his judgments of what to do about recommending policy in North Korea, but consciously or unconsciously, he has certainly avoided any recommendation which could be interpreted as an appeasement of the Chinese Reds.

Maybe our actions in the past did not have any effect on Red China's decision to intervene, but whatever the truth is, the dangers of allowing domestic political considerations to determine future United States action along the Manchurian border are certainly apparent.

There is still good reason to believe that the situation in North Korea can be saved by creating a neutral 'buffer zone" along the Yalu, supervised by a United Nations commission. There is, indeed, considerable support in Washington for such a compromise, but it will be difficult to negotiate such a settlement if, despite the dangers of the present situation, those in Washington who insist on pushing right up to the Manchurian and Soviet frontiers have their way.

Robed Trio Seized Man, Augusta Told

Constitution State News Service

AUGUSTA, Nov. 15—Police here were investigating Wednesday night reports that three white-robed men seized an unidentified man in the downtown section during the busy rush hour and sped away with him in an automobile.

The investigation was apparently full of contradictions and discrepancies. Only two persons in the crowded downtown business intersection reported seeing the attack and "kidnaping."

Lt. J. T. Bishop, who received the original report from a woman in a downtown store, said police had "very little to go on." He said there have been no formal complaints and no reports of any missing persons.

"A policeman was on duty in the center of the intersection less than 50 feet away," he said, "and police were pouring out of the police station about 100 yards away because it was time to change shifts. But only two people claim to have seen the episode."

Police Chief F. B. Green quoted eyewitneses as saying the men wore white satin robes with no masks. They did, however, wear hoods. None of the witnesses recognized either the robed men or their captive.

Witnesses said the man turned and ran when the car drove up but the robed men quickly overtook him and forced him into the car. A third man kept the motor running.

The "abductee' was described as middle-aged, heavy-set and slightly stoop shouldered.

Police were also investigating the possibility that the Ku Klux Klan might be involved in the reported abduction. Jack Dempsey, known as a leader in the Georgia Klan, denied the organization was implicated and said he would start an immediate investigation.

The apparent sincerity of the woman who originally made the report sparked police to enter into a large-scale investigation of the matter. They said they had "very little to go on."

Other observers in the Georgia city said they believed the event might have been the result of a feud between the Georgia Klan and the Ku Klux group led by Thomas Hamilton, of South Carolina.

"One of the Carolina boys might have got out of hand and some of the boys probably came over and picked him up," a local newspaperman commented.

The woman who made the original report, according to police, could not describe the type, make, license or age of the car in which the men left the scene following the incident.

Ten-year-old Roy Morris, of Monroe, arrived home Wednesday night. Relatives met the ailing boy in Athens and drove the ailing boy to Monroe after a week in Washington and New York.

Roy, is suffering a serious kidney condition hydronephrosis which will not allow him much more than 80 days to live according to Georgia doctors. A healthy appearing and overly energetic youngster, Roy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elbert Morris of Monroe.

Morris is an employee of the Southeastern Garment Company there.

Mrs. Morris left Atlanta by plane Sunday morning to join her husband and son in Brooklyn, where doctors had begun examining the boy. Her trip was occasioned by a case of homesickness and longing for "Mom" on Roy's part.

"Everybody in Monroe, Athens, Atlanta, Washington and New York has been wonderful and more than sympathetic," Mrs. Morris said Wednesday night as the family arrived in Athens. "I couldn't have asked for better treatment for Roy. There's never been a happier boy, I'm sure."

According to the parents, preliminary diagnosis of Brooklyn doctors was essentially the same as that given earlier by Georgia physicians.

Mrs. Morris said, "Roy was homesick and we just decided to bring him on home." The New York doctors had said they could not give a definite diagnosis until Friday of this week when complete testing and examination would have been completed had Roy remained in their care.

When Roy got off the train here he was greeted by his two brothers, his sister and other relatives. He introduced them all to H. O. Murray, train conductor, who had given him an envelope containing $50 contributed toward the boy's expenses by Atlantans.

The movement in Monroe to raise money so that Roy might see the country before it is too late was initiated by Sanders Camp, Managing Editor of the Walton Tribune.

Camp said he and others who worked on the fund thought the Morrises should have stayed in New York "at least long enough to have completed the examination."

New Divisions Are Asked for Police Dept.

Creation of three new divisions of the Atlanta Police Department was recommended Wednesday night by City Council's Police Department as the first step in reorganization of administrative functions.

Committeemen recommended that Superintendents of uniformed men, traffic services be named by Chief Jenkins after City Council authorizes them. A superintendent of detectives, also recommended in a survey by the International Association of Police Chiefs, already is functioning.

Chief Jenkins pointed out that the recommendation will entail a nominal expense since it does not contemplate immediate addition of 20 additional policemen or the purchase of more equipment at an over-all estimated cost of $100,000. He said the other items could be considered later, but emphasized that the administrative reorganization should proceed at once.

In other actions the committee voted to reprimand operators of a beer dispensing place at 401 Moreland Ave., N. E., for allegedly selling beer to an intoxicated person, and recommended revocation of the permit of Mrs. W. R. Hightower to operate a massage establishment at 579 Courtland St., N. E.

Baptists Pray for Armed Forces; Meet Ends Today

By ED KELLY

SAVANNAH, Nov. 15—The Georgia Baptist Convention paused in solemn prayer here Wednesday for members of American fighting forces all over the world.

The convention picked Macon as the 1951 meeting place. Final sessions are scheduled for Thursday.

Dr. T. Baron Gibson, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Valdosta, asked in prayer "that God may bless and protect Gen. Douglas MacArthur and those under his command in Korea in their fight for freedom." Dr. Gibson was an Army chaplain during both world wars.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, president of the convention, told the pastors and laymen "that in a recent letter he was asked by Gen. MacArthur for the prayers of those here at home for him and those fighting with him."

In answer to MacArthur's request, a special letter has been sent to the commander.

In a sermon Wednesday morning, Dr. G. Earl Quinn, of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, declared that greater emphasis should be placed on theological education.

A report by Arthur Jackson, executive secretary of the Georgia Baptist Foundation, said the total endowment held by six Baptist colleges now is approximately $3,342,598 and the total endowment held by the Foundation for the benefit of the six schools is approximately $781,680.

At a meeting in conjunction with the convention, J. L. Drake, of Monroe, was elected President of the Mercer Ministerial Alumni Association. Loyd Amason, of Gray, was chosen vice president, and W. J. Self, of Macon, was named secretary-treasurer.

Snyder Asks Profit Tax Passage

75 Percent Levy Proposed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(U.P.)—Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder urged Congress Wednesday to levy a $4,000,000,000-a-year super-tax on business to combat inflation and help finance defense spending.

He proposed reviewing the World War II excess-profits tax. The rate would be cut from 85½ to 75 per cent, however, and small firms would receive more liberal exemptions.

Testifying before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Snyder spelled out details of the new Administration tax program which President Truman outlined Tuesday in a letter to Committee Chairman Robert L. Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina.

Mr. Truman urged enactment of the excess profits tax during the lame duck session of Congress beginning Nov. 27, and said it should date back to last July 1. The President also hinted that still higher taxes will be necessary next year to meet mounting military costs.

Snyder was the first witness as the House Committee opened hearings on a tax bill to be laid before the short session.

He said the proposed business tax would increase federal revenue to about $47,000,000,000 a year. While that would keep the government in the black during the current fiscal year, when total spending is estimated at $45,000,000,000, Snyder warned that the full cost of the defense program is yet to be felt.

Under the Snyder plan, corporations could figure their "normal" profits either on the basis of their total capital investment or on their average profits between 1946 and 1949.

Firms which chose the latter method would take their average profits in their best three years in the 1946-49 period and then reduce the amount by 25 percent. This would give them their "normal profits" tax base.

If the resulting amount was $25,000 or less, there would be no excess profits tax.

But if it came to more than $25,000, the entire sum would be subject to a flat 75 percent supertax.

This differs from the World War II excess profits levy, when an exemption of $10,000 was granted to all firms, large and small.

Shoulder Injury Delays Draft

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 15—(AP)—Stephen Tczak was not inducted into the Army on schedule Wednesday.

The Singac resident appeared bright and early at Draft Board 36, shoved open a door—and dislocated his left shoulder.

After treatment at Paterson General Hospital, he was scheduled to go to the Newark Induction Center to catch up with the other 55 inductees in the quota.

Officers Seize 'Old' Klan Chief

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 15—(AP)—A man identified as the former "Old Man" of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, wanted for parole violation, was apprehended Wednesday in Robbinsdale, Minneapolis suburb, by sheriff's deputies.

W. H. Fabriz, chief of detective and civil divisions in the Sheriff's Office, said the man was positively identified as David C. Stephenson, who once boasted he was "The Law in Indiana."

Fabriz said the man booked on suspicion of parole violation under the name of "Frank Carl Wright" pending a finger print check.

Stephenson, 58, is wanted for parole violation. He was sent to Indiana State Prison, Michigan City, Ind., in 1925 for a life term after being convicted of murder. He disappeared from his Carbondale, Ill., rooming house Aug. 30.

AF To Boost Europe Jets

WIESBADEN, Germany, Nov. 15—(AP)—U. S. Air Force officials said Wednesday fighter-plane strength in Europe might be increased along with the current program to boost the number of U. S. ground troops in Germany.

The officials disclosed the U. S. fighter strength now includes 180 F-84-E Thunderjets — America's latest and fastest jet model—which arrived late last month in a two-phase flight from the U. S. These planes were brought in to replace the older F-80 Shooting Star jets and the F-47 propellor-driven planes stationed in Europe previously.

Officials said the changeover to Thunderjets had increased the fire power of the European Fighter Command 50 percent.

Moslem Bride, 13, Snubs Dutch Kin

SINGAPORE, Nov. 15—(AP)—Bertha Hertogh, 13-year-old girl raised as a Moslem told her Dutch mother Wednesday she would never return to her family home in Holland.

Clinging to her foster mother, Che Aminah, a Malayan who reared her after the Japanese fell upon the Hertogh's home in Java, the girl defiantly told her mother:

"I don't love you and never could and I'll never go with you."

The mother, Mrs. A. P. Hertogh, opens a battle in Singapore Supreme Court next Monday seeking custody of the girl who has married a Malayan school teacher and taken the name of Nadra Adabi. A previous court decision gave custody of the child to Che Aminah, her former nurse.

China Peace Plea Made by Acheson

Aide Says U. S. Puzzled By Korea Intervention

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson Wednesday declared American readiness to "explore every possibility" of reaching a peaceful settlement with Communist China over Korea.

He thus apparently offered to negotiate with the Chinese Reds through the UN but he warned that they may be in Korea not to protect their Manchurian border interests, but "to precipitate a really great crisis in the world."

Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk, chief of Far Eastern Relations under Acheson, said frankly American leaders do not know why Red China entered the Korean fighting.

"It is of greatest importance for us to try to find out whether the Chinese have limited objectives which are negotiatable," he said.

Acheson virtually offered the Peiping regime—which the U. S. does not recognize—assurances that the American Government has no intention of sending its forces across the border into Manchuria and also it will do everything possible to protect China's interests in the border area—notably the Yalu Power Dams.

He said everything possible must be done to prevent the Red Chinese intervention from plunging the world into a "tragedy of the most colossal nature."

Acheson and Rusk spoke at a conference of representatives of 200 American organizations which periodically send delegates to the State Department to discuss and get reports on foreign policy.

Acheson expanded his informal talk to cover domestic politics and what he called "destructive" criticism loosed against the State Department. He appealed to his hearers to get well acquainted with the department and its personnel and then go back home and tell friends and neighbors what kind of institution it is. He also reiterated his intention of not resigning by saying he looks forward to "further years" in the department.

Red Units Said Moving Into Burma

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 15—(AP)—The newspaper Rangoon Daily declared Wednesday Chinese Communist detachments, apparently hunting a short cut into southeastern Tibet, have invaded the north tip of Burma. Official confirmation was lacking.

The newspaper said the Chinese have penetrated 50 miles into Burma territory to the Katchin village of Laukhaung and are approaching the city of Putao gateway to high mountain passes into Tibet.

(This dispatch did not go into detail about the size and make-up of the reported detachments.)

Putao lies 720 miles north of Rangoon, Burma's capital; 420 miles southeast of Lhasa, Tibetan capital already menaced by Chinese drives from the east and north; and 320 miles south of Chamdo, captive Tibetan city the Chinese have converted into a staging area for the Tibetan invasion they call a "liberation."

To the north is Namni Pass, at an altitude of 15,300 feet; to the northwest is Diphuk Pass, 14,280 feet; and to the west, on a route that crosses the north tip of India's Assam Province, is Chaukan Pass, 7,979 feet.

The Rangoon Daily said Burmese frontier authorities appealed to the government to enforce strong security measures immediately.

The nation's economy, however, has been strained by civil war ever since Burma won independence from Britain almost three years ago.

Lottery Trial Of Woman Opens

Margaret Hodges, alias Jo Hodges, went on trial in Fulton Criminal Court Wednesday on five counts of operating a lottery.

The 30-year-old woman was arrested Oct. 25, 1949, in a downtown Atlanta hotel by city detectives and members of the solicitor's staff.

Assistant Solicitor Broadus Zellars spent most of Wednesday afternoon attempting to link the woman with lottery tickets found in a room next to the one in which she was taken into custody.

Judge John McClelland recessed the trial until 10 a. m. Thursday.

Proposed milk price increase on buttermilk and cream, postponed for a month by the State Milk Board Wednesday, will be killed entirely if the Board follows the recommendations to be made by Chairman Charlie Duncan.

Duncan said Wednesday night he will ask the Board at its meeting next month to cancel the proposed order increasing prices. Meanwhile, the order is held up.

Duncan said he would hold hearings in Columbus Thursday and Savannah Tuesday, protesting the proposed price increases.

Total Curbs Predicted on Top Metals

U. S. Official Cites Arms Need

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(U.P.) A government official predicted Wednesday the United States may spend $50,000,000,000 to $60,000,000,000 on rearmament next year and said this would mean complete controls over such strategic metals as aluminum, copper and steel.

Manly Fleischmann, General Counsel of the National Production Authority, said the biggest share of these metals would go to the military. He said essential civilian production would get a share, but would not estimate how much.

Simultaneously, the government ordered the steel industry to provide 30,000 tons of steel during the first three months of next year to build 12 new Great Lakes cargo vessels. The NPA previously ordered 30,000 tons of steel set aside for manufacture of railroad freight cars.

The newest steel order will be a boon to the steel industry since the new vessels will haul iron to steel foundries. A shortage of iron ore has led some government officials to fear steelmakers may be handicapped in expansion plans.

A military budget of the size anticipated by Fleischmann would mean Federal spending for all purposes in the next fiscal year would climb to about $80,000,000,000—higher than in some World War II years.

Fleischmann said he could not imagine spending this much money without a "controlled materials program" and predicted rigid allocation controls would be imposed shortly after July 1, 1951, the start of the 1952 fiscal year.

Fleischmann also said the automobile industry would be certain to feel the impact of more stringent controls.

Postal Audits Unit Slated For Atlanta

Atlanta has been selected as one of 12 regional centers for the new Postal Audits Division of the Post Office Department, Atlanta Postmaster Lon Livingston was notified Wednesday.

A division office will be set up in the Federal Annex here around July 1, 1951, Livingston said.

The division has just been created as a result of decentralization of the old General Accounting Office. Expected date of the organization move coincides with the start of a new money order system by the Post Office. After July 1, 1951, money order audit work will be done mechanically.

The shift resulted from an agreement between Postmaster General Donaldson and Comptroller General Lindsay Warren. The two sponsored legislation in Congress to place accounting and audit work of the Post Office on "a modern business basis." The new agency will make a commercial auditor of the Post Office Department as its first task.

Other regional offices will be established in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco.

Three-Year-Old Boy Dies in Trailer Fire

SUFFOLK, Va., Nov. 15—(AP)—Burns caused the death of Aaron R. Harrell, 3, here Wednesday. He was playing with David Speight, 5, and crawled into a dog trailer. In some manner grass in the trailer became ignited and neighbors removed the Harrell child unconscious. He died at a hospital.

His father, Sidney F. Harrell, is a fireman.

Drunks To Get Jail Sentences

Drunks—driving or jaywalking—and speeders can expect straight stockade sentences for the remainder of the year, Traffic Judge Luke Arnold warned Wednesday.

Traffic Courts during 1951 will contine on a "severe, firm and stern" basis, Arnold declared.

"As the Christmas holidays approach with the streets jammed with automobiles and pedestrians, I feel it my duty to appeal to the public to help prevent accidents and save lives," Arnold said. "I intend to instruct deputy traffic judges to be very severe on those testimony shows were actually drunk when arrested."

Kidnap Suspect Faces Operation

SANTA FE., N. M., Nov. 15—(AP)—A decision will be made soon—possibly Thursday—on whether to operate on Dr. Nancy Campbell, charged with kidnaping 9-year-old Linda Stamm.

A defense of temporary insanity will be made for the 43-year-old woman doctor who was trapped Saturday night as she reached for $20,000 ransom. The child was found unharmed a short time later.

A. L. Zinn, her attorney, says she is dangerously near a physical breakdown, suffers from a head injury received in mid-August and is believed to have a brain tumor.

After her release from jail here on $25,000 bond Monday, Dr. Campbell was taken to an Albuquerque hospital for treatment.

Atomic Spy Gold Tells Amtorg Link

Tells of Orders To Get Data on Explosives

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Harry Gold, confessed atomic spy, testified in Federal Court Wednesday that in 1941 Semon M. Semenov, who was an official of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet purchasing agency in this country, and his superior in an espionage ring, instructed him to get from a "contact" all available information of a military nature.

The biochemist said Semenov specified processes dealing with the manufacture of a military explosive, aviation gasoline, rubber, steel, synthetic alcohol and petroleum lubricants.

Gold identified as the "contact" Abraham Brothman, chemical engineer, who with Miriam Moskowitz, a business associate, is being tried before Judge Irving R. Kaufman on a charge of obstructing justice.

The Government alleges Gold, not a defendant, and Brothman told a 1947 Federal Grand Jury investigating espionage a false story concerning their relations with each other and with other persons that they had concocted with Miss Moskowitz's help.

Slouched in the witness chair and testifying unhesitatingly in a precise, even voice, Gold said he had become a Soviet espionage agent in November, 1935, but denied emphatically he ever had belonged to the Communist Party. Previous testimony indicated that money was his motive.

At first, he said, he was involved only in industrial espionage. This meant stealing from the Pennsylvania Sugar Company, where he was employed as a research chemist, and its subsidiaries, chemical processes used in the manufacture of industrial solvents. These he turned over to a man known to him as "Paul Smith," who identified himself as a representative of Amtorg.

In 1940 Gold began to function as a courier for a spy ring. His job was to contact Americans whose names had been supplied him and obtain from them material which he passed on to his Soviet superior "of the moment." This data concerned not only industrial processes but also "large amounts of material relating directly to military matters," he said.

After describing the cloak and dagger technique used in arranging and effectuating these meetings, Gold identified a photograph of Semenov shown him by United States Attorney Irving H. Saypol as that of a man known to him as "Sam" who became his Soviet superior in July, 1940, and under whom he worked "steadily" until February, 1946.

Semenov, who has since returned to Russia, has been identified by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as the head of a Soviet atomic spy ring.

Fireworks Curbs for State Asked

The State of Georgia is ready to begin regulating the manufacture and sale of fireworks, in order to eliminate those dangerous to children.

This was seen Wednesday when the Georgia Safety Fire Advisory Board recommended that fireworks dealers be required to obtain state licenses and abide by state regulations. Compt.-Gen. Zack Cravey said he had not had a chance to study the proposals, but he usually follows the recommendations of the advisory group.

The group, headed by Ted Forbes, of Atlanta, urged regulations which would assure that only "safe and sane" firecrackers be sold in Georgia. Firecrackers exceeding 1½ inches in length and one-fourth inch in diameter and containing more than two grains of powder, or made from materials harder than paper, would be banned.

State Fire Marshall F. E. Robinson said many cities in Georgia already ban the sale of fireworks. (They are banned both in Atlanta and Fulton County). However, on the outskirts of some cities, stands are selling giant-sized fireworks which are dangerous, he said.

The regulations would not prohibit the use of any type fireworks for public display, where an expert handles it under approval of local governing authorities.

The board also recommended rules for safe grandstands and well marked exits in places of outdoor assembly, such as drive-in theaters and ball parks.

Heated Fat Can Cause Cancer By 'Trigger,' Research Finds

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ

CHICAGO, Nov. 15—(INS)—A noted physiologist announced Wednesday the discovery of a mysterious "trigger" mechanism in heated fat which can cause cancer.

He is Dr. A. C. Ivy, Vice President in charge of the Chicago professional colleges of the University of Illinois.

The short, portly, white-haired scientist, one of the nation's top physiologists, said three years of research in his laboratories turned up a cancer-causing factor—a carcinogen—in heated fat.

Ordinary fat—such as used in the kitchen—heated to 350 degrees centigrade, approximately the point where it begins to smoke, explained Dr. Ivy, brought on cancers in experimental mice.

Dr. Ivy's study will be published soon in Cancer, technical magazine of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Ivy declared:

"Fat used and re-used in frying and heated often to the smoking point is especially dangerous.

"When fat gets dark brown it should immediately be discarded and never used again."

Dr. Ivy and two associates, Ardelle Lane and D. Blickenstaff, fed 64 mice, of a strain noted for being cancer resistant, heated fat over a period of three years.

Although none of the animals developed cancers, 37 per cent did turn up with sores and lesions in their stomachs and colons. The heated fat was injected into the skins of 31 other mice and three of these developed cancers.

GEORGIA FOREST CONSERVATION SIGN UNVEILED

Gov. Talmadge, right, and George B. Leonard officiate

Better Forest Protection Urged by Gov. Talmadge

Gov. Talmadge called for increased protection of Georgia forests from fires Wednesday, as he unveiled a new "Keep Georgia Forests Green" sign near the Chattahoochee River bridge on the Marietta highway.

He said 86 of the State's 159 counties already have organized protection against fires—but he said at least 25 more were on the waiting list for the service. He declared these and other counties would be given protection as soon as funds were available.

Gov. Talmadge pointed out that appropriations for the State Forestry Commission had "almost quadrupled" during his administration.

"If we continue on our present course," he predicted, "the timber industry will be the largest in the State in 25 years."

George B. Leonard, Fulton County chairman of the "Keep Georgia Green" Committee, explained that the sign erection program (two signs are scheduled to be erected in each County of the State) was "another step in the educational campaign to remind citizens of the importance of our forest resources."

Guyton DeLoach, Director of the State Forestry Commission, noted that Fulton County has 217,158 acres of forest land, whereas the average county in Georgia has only 160,000 acres in timber.

Phone Union Sees End of Picket Ban

Roy Reynolds, secretary of CIO-CWA Div. 6, striking Western Electric installers, said late Wednesday a court injunction preventing installers from picketing in Alabama was thrown out of court and he was "optimistic the same thing will happen in Georgia and other Southern States."

As the Georgia court fight over legality of pickets approached its Friday morning hearing, repairmen working overtime completed work on telephone cables and wires in the Sandy Springs area which were riddled with bullets early Wednesday, putting an estimated 400 telephones out of order.

Charles J. Tucker, Atlanta district manager, said he had posted a $1,000 reward for the "arrest and conviction of person or persons who unlawfully caused the damage in this area."

Fulton County Police and Bell officials launched an immediate investigation of "apparent sabotage" and established a strict patrol of the area. Tucker said he had no idea who was responsible.

Southern Bell officials also revealed that the Alabama injunction was prosecuted and appealed before the Alabama Supreme Court soon after the decision in favor of picketing was handed down.

In Atlanta, Judge Ralph Pharr revoked an earlier order allowing the Southern Bell Company to gather testimony from union witnesses in preparation of the picket-fest in Fulton Superior Court Friday.

Tuesday, Judge Pharr had granted the company permission to take testimony and investigate the communications between the local union headquarters and their national office in New York.

A spokesman for the CIO-CWA Div. 49, which is the non-striking Southern Bell union, added he was sure the WE union members were innocent of any such violence. "This union would never stand for any of that sort of monkey business," the spokesman said.

Violence of a different type erupted in Philadelphia where WE telephone pickets battled police for the second time since the strike began last Thursday. But the push-and-shove melee did not keep non-striking Bell Telephone operators from going to work.

It was the second successive day that pickets and police clashed there as tension mounted in the week-old coast-to-coast strike of CIO equipment installers.

In New York, a noisy demonstration of union stockholders in the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. nearly broke up a share-holders meeting.

CWA President Joseph A. Bierne, issued a bitter statement late in the day charging the increasing number of anti-picket injunctions being issued throughout the country represented a "nauseating spectacle of subversion of justice." He added the courts were being used as strike breakers by the telephone companies.

Man From Mars? New York Yawns

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(U.P.) Science Fiction magazine set model Frank Wade parading through New York streets dressed in a "man from Mars" costume Wednesday to see if New Yorkers are as blase as advertised.

He had a Paris-green complexion, wore a winged, silver helmet, green tights, and sported a flying saucer insignia on his chest.

Only eight persons stopped to ask who or what he was.

One asked an accompanying reporter and was told "he's a man from Mars."

"Oh," he said with relief, "I thought maybe the guy was a psycho."

Ma Sunday Hails Work Of Graham

Says' Atlanta Is Fortunate

Wednesday night was, in Billy Graham's words, a special night at the Greater Atlanta Evangelistic Crusade, doing special honor to a special person.

He referred to Ma Sunday, 82-year-old widow of the evangelist who was the center of a large revival here 33 years ago. Thirteen in an estimated crowd of 14,000 raised their hands to signify that they were saved at that time by Billy Sunday "whose hem we are just touching," said Graham.

Eloquent and still young-looking, Ma Sunday told the crowd Atlanta is fortunate to have Billy Graham here and said "she thanks God for young men like him who are spreading the word of God."

She said that when Sunday died 15 years ago in Chicago "it didn't look like there was anything left for me in the world." But, she added, "the Lord has kept me busy ever since and I am so thankful to have His little errands to do here and there."

Graham, in the shortest of his 15 sermons here so far, held up the Apostle Paul as a model of repentance. "We can only serve God with humility of mind," he said.

Special delegations Wednesday night included: Georgia Power Company, 2,600; Colonial Stores, 900; Lithonia, 100; Mountain View Baptist Church, 100; Mansfield and Acworth, 50 each; Woodstock and Dahlonega, 40 each. Also introduced by Graham was Dr. R. G. Lee, of Memphis, Tenn., President of the Southern Baptist Convention, who was passing through Atlanta and asked "God's blessing on the Crusade."

Thursday night Stuart Hamblin, movie and radio star, will testify how he was saved by Graham.

5 Officers Die In Air Crash

PAGE, Okla., Nov. 15—(AP)—Five Naval officers were killed when their two-engine plane roared through fog and crashed into a mountain near this Eastern Oklahoma town Wednesday night.

The crash scene was atop Rich mountain in the Quachita National Forest along the Oklahoma-Arkansas border about 45 miles Southwest of Fort Smith, Ark.

The plane was en route to Barksdale Field, Shreveport, La., from Lincoln, Neb., Naval Air Station.

Lt. Cmdr. John Parsons, Public information officer at the New Orleans Naval Station, said three of the officers were stationed at New Orleans. The other two were reserve officers from Shreveport.

Slavs Rely on UN If Reds Attack

LONDON, Nov. 15—(AP)—Yugoslavia is relying on the United Nations if the Cominform nations attack that country, the Weekly Picture Post said Wednesday in a report quoting answers to 12 questions it submitted to Marshal Tito.

In one answer Tito was quoted as saying:

"With respect to safeguarding the independence and security of our country, we rely in the first place on our internal unity, and our internal force. Secondly, we do indeed rely on the United Nations also . . ."

Peace Parley Delegates Fly From Britain

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, Nov. 15—Most of the delegates to the Warsaw Peace Congress left Britain Wednesday by air. Some went by ship to Brussels to fly from there to the Polish capital. A few will leave Thursday.

The British Government, which forced the collapse of the Congress that was to have been held at Sheffield by its exclusion of top foreign Communists, acted Wednesday to speed on their way the few foreign delegates who had been admitted.

Neither did the approximately 200 British delegates who will go to Warsaw have any difficulty in getting passports. A passport office official said there had been no refusals of passports to Britons that he knew of.

Dr. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, said he would fly to Warsaw Wednesday. Pablo Picasso, who with Dr. Johnson enlivened the one-day preliminary session at Sheffield, said he also would attend the Congress.

U. S. Request Delays UN Formosa Study

Acts in Fear Far East War May Become General

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 15—(UP)—The United Nations Wednesday postponed debate on the future of Formosa after the United States requested the delay on grounds that Chinese Communist war moves threaten to touch off a general Far East conflict.

The vote was 53-0 with the five-nation Soviet bloc abstaining. Russia and its allies have argued that Formosa belongs to Communist China and that the UN has no business discussing any other future for the Nationalist-held island redoubt.

A Nationalist China request then was granted to take up Chiang Kai-shek's charges that Russia is guilty of aggression against China. The vote was 14 to 8, with 36 abstentions.

This action placed the issue ahead of the next regularly listed debate subject—Russia's charge that the United States has committed aggression against Communist China.

American Delegate John Foster Dulles told the General Assembly's main political committee.

"In the light of the conduct of this so-called government—things we can't shut our eyes to—the intervention in North Korea, the invasion of Tibet, the great aid to Ho Chi-Minh in Indochina, and the threats of invasion of Formosa—we face . . . the risk, at least, that the whole area may be engulfed in aggressive war.

"If this is going to happen, then a discussion here of the long-range future of Formosa would be somewhat academic."

Dulles pointed out that the Security Council now has before it a resolution demanding that Peking remove its troops from Korea, and that the Council's "primary task" is to prevent the "great disaster" of a world war.

He wanted the Formosa debate postponed, he added, "lest by misventure . . . we might say something about this delicate problem which might make more difficult the already difficult enough task of the Security Council."

Dulles' mention of the invasion of Tibet marked the first time that issue has been raised in debate here. It came only a short time after El Salvador had announced a formal request that the assembly take up Tibet's plea for UN action against the Chinese Communist invaders.

However, pressure was understood being exerted on the Central American nation to reverse its move. Many key delegations here have been reluctant to debate the Tibet invasion because of considerable legal doubts whether the Himalayan theocracy is a sovereign nation, as it claims, rather than technically a part of China.

Hitchhike Slayer Given Life Term

By M. L. ST. JOHN

A convicted murderer escaped his Friday date with the electric chair Wednesday when the Georgia Parole Board decided that his punishment should be the same as that of a co-defendent—life imprisonment.

Board action saved James D. Pressley, a North Carolinian, convicted with John Long in the "hitchhike" slaying of William E. Edwards in Charlton County. Long was given a life sentence at the trial.

The Board order stated it "believed Long was saved from the death sentence in the courts because he helped the State solve the crime." The Board ruled both Pressley and Long were equally guilty of premeditated murder, without justification, and without any extenuating circumstances.

"With both men being equally guilty, the variance in the punishment (death and life) is too extreme for the aid which Long may have furnished the state," said the order.

The order was signed by Chairman Edward B. Everett and members Rebecca Rainey and Charlie Pannell.

In the original trial at Waycross, both Long and Pressley were given death sentences. Edwards' body had not been found at that time. The two won new trials. Long then carried officers to a spot near Folkston and showed them where the body was buried. He was given a life sentence at his second trial, while Pressley received a second death sentence.

Investigating officers fixed the date of the slaying as Feb. 8, 1947. A tip nearly two years later led to the arrest of Pressley and Long.

The Board will hear pleas Thursday for commutation of death sentences of two white men from Savannah and a Hartwell Negro. Thomas Lynch and George Kersey, of Savannah, will make their appeals Thursday afternoon. Willie Phillips, of Hartwell, will appeal Thursday morning.

Germany's Rearming Held Remote

By DREW MIDDLETON

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

FRANKFURT, Nov. 15—German rearmament, even to the limited extent envisaged by the Pleven plan, cannot get under way until next year and it may be 1952 before any German contingents are trained and equipped to the point where they can take their place beside American, British and French contingents in the defense of Western Europe.

This is the conclusion of allied military and political sources here. These sources believe that France, before the end of the year, will agree to German rearmament on a "more realistic scale" than is envisaged by the Pleven plan, and eventually will acquiesce to the formation of German divisions to operate in an army corps with the divisions of other nationalities.

But they are pessimistic over the amount of time necessary to win a measure of German popular approval for rearmament great enough to insure that the German divisions represent the entire country and not merely the officer class and the discontented veterans of World War II.

American and British general officers alike stress that only a truly national army—one representing all classes rather than a mercenary one—will be of much help in defending Europe against Soviet aggression.

Two barriers in way of German rearmament are seen here as French opposition and German opposition.

The first of these will be overcome by the end of December, these sources confidently predict. But even when France agrees to some form of German contribution, officials of the three allies in Germany believe that a prolonged political debate will ensue in this country.

Some German political sources at Bonn think that it will be three months before support can be won for a Bundestag motion accepting the allied request to rearm.

ECA To Aid Spain Under Loan Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(AP)—Help for Spain under the $62,500,000 loan program voted by Congress will begin at once, the Economic Co-operation Administration announced Wednesday.

There were no specific figures, however, and the real scope of the operation was left in some doubt.

Congress wrote the provision for the loans into an appropriation bill last Summer over Truman Administration objections, and there had been suggestions the President might impound the money.

Mr. Truman himself, at a news conference on Aug. 31, left that question up in the air. Asked how the loan program would be administered, the President said he would answer when we come to the implementation of the loan. His cryptic response left open the inference he might not expect to administer it at all.

The ECA announcement Wednesday, however, said procedures for the loans were worked out by ECA, the Export-Import Bank and the State Department, "at the direction of President Truman."

ECA said loans for specific industrial projects which will make "substantial contributions to the Spanish economy" will be cleared by the Export-Import Bank. The proposal is to work out contracts in which the Spanish Government will guarantee repayment.

THEATER ROW

'Ramshackle' Rickety in ACT Hands

By PAUL JONES

Atlanta Civic Theater's version of George Batson's three act comedy - mystery, "Ramshackle Inn," opened a four-day engagement at the Woman's Club Wednesday night, and, although the audience seemed to appreciate many of the punch lines, the overall production was spotty.

The play started off like a locomotive. It huffed and puffed through the first act, its wheels slipping on the tracks, but it managed to get enough traction in the second stanza to blow a little comedy steam. Midway the third act it was huffing and puffing. At the finale, it topped the grade and the audience, apparently bent on getting its money's worth out of its evening, rewarded the efforts of one and all with a hearty round of applause.

A very capable actress, Jacquelin Jones, who played the part of a spinster who has just purchased a dilapidated old hotel, emerged as one of the wittiest and most able players we have seen in the semi-professional theater here in many years. Her crotchety manner was a real affectation—not her own, since she is known as one of the "torchiest" singers in these parts. It was a real job of acting on her part and she richly deserved the rousing ovation she received in the finale.

Bob Mann, as Dr. Russell, spoke his lines with authority, and so did Tom Chadwick. Larry Melert, as the neurotic hotel manager, Patton, stood out in a well performed part.

Emory Hears Eugene List

Eugene List, young American pianist, performed before a crowd of more than 200 persons Wednesday night in the second concert of Emory University's Chamber Music Series.

The concert, due to small seating capacity of the Alumni Memorial Building auditorium, was limited to Emory faculty and students.

Brines Tells Editors Hard Korea Facts

Newspaper editors from all parts of the United States are sandwiching first-hand accounts of history-making events into their personal conferences on handling the news at the Associated Press Managing Editors Association convention here at the Biltmore.

Between critical studies of the Associated Press' treatment of the news, the editors Wednesday heard a vivid eyewitness account of the Korean war from Russell Brines, veteran correspondent in the Asiatic field and chief of the Associated Press Tokyo bureau.

Brines, who said he spoke not for himself but as the representative of other Associated Press staffers and correspondents of other news agencies and newspapers who are in Korea "breaking their backs and sometimes breaking their hearts to cover this story," presented a poignant picture of green American troops in action.

"Our boys had been lured into the Army by travel folders and promises of a life of ease," he said. "They had no idea of fighting and they weren't well indoctrinated. But in spite of that they displayed something that seems to me essentially American—an integrity and toughness of spirit that held out against all odds."

Brines said the first Americans in the Korea fighting included "boys who had never heard a shot fired" and added, "they were opposing a highly trained, highly mechanized army."

The correspondent warned the editors that the United Nations are already at war with Communist China and concluded his talk by saying soberly: "A lot of good men out there trying to write the story are looking to you men and women here at home to supply leadership, to supply clear, honest thinking to overcome a paralysis in the greatest crisis this couuntry has ever faced."

In a question and answer session following his talk, Brines said he discussed censorship on the battlefront and quoted General MacArthur as saying he knew of no single instance when AP stories had revealed anything detrimental to the progress of the battle. Other officers, interviewed in the field, did not agree with MacArthur and favored strict censorship, Brines said.

Charles A. Hazen, of the Shreveport, La., Times, during discussions of newswriting and foreign and domestic service, cited 58 news stories which he said were examples to illustrate left-wing pro - government, pro - Acheson bias in the AP news report. Many of the examples were stories dealing with charges by Senator McCarthy, Republican, Wisconsin, of Communism in government, especially in the State Department under Secretary of State Acheson.

Westbrook Pegler column on Hazen Report—Page 15.

Hazen said 80 percent of AP staffers in the Washington bureau are members of the American Newspaper Guild (CIO) and the president of the Guild is a government employee making $10,000 a year with the Economic Co-operation Adminstration.

V. M. Newton, of the Tampa Tribune, speaking for the majority of the domestic news sub-committee, complimented Hazen for his thorough analysis and said Hazen's research would be "a great benefit to the AP."

Election of directors will come Thursday. The Nominating Committee, headed by Stanley P. Barnett, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Wednesday submitted a slate of 16 names.

They are: John H. Colburn, Richmond Times-Dispatch; Frank Eyerly, Des Moines Register; Ray J. Fanning, Waterbury Republican; A. M. Glassberg, Everett (Wash.) Herald; Purser Hewitt, Jackson (Miss.) Clarion-Ledger; R. M. Hitt, Jr., Charleston Post; Norman Isaacs, St. Louis Star-Times; Raymond McCaw, New York Times; V. M. Newton, Jr., Tampa Tribune; Murray Powers, Akron Beacon-Journal; Tom K. Showalter, Crawfordsville (Ind.) Journal-Review; Ray Spangler, Redwood City, (Calif.) Tribune; William P. Steven, Minneapolis Tribune; E. T. Stone, Seattle Post-Intelligencer; W. R. Walton, South Bend Tribune, and Carl F. White, Santa Monica Outlook.

about Russia I should be recalled as ambassador," he said, grinning slightly. "I knew then what we had to deal with."

Harriman, tall, lanky and extremely youthful looking, despite the fact that he arrived in Atlanta on his 59th birthday, expressed pleasure at being here again for the first time since 1945, when he came to attend a Central of Georgia directors' meeting. At that time he was Chairman of the Board of the Union Pacific. He has no positions in business now, he said.

"You're a full-time servant?" he was asked.

"Or," he said pointedly, "a bureaucrat."

Attaches of Mayor Hartsfield's office and A. Y. Aronson, managing editor of the Louisville Times, met Harriman at the airport and took him to the Piedmont Driving Club, where visiting newspapermen were the guests of the Coca-Cola Company at dinner. Harriman and his secretary, James Lanigan, will return to Washington at 6:10 p. m. Thursday.

Easter Seal Row Revives

Long controversy over control of the annual Easter Seal fund-raising campaigns for Georgia's crippled children is raging anew.

In a lengthy special meeting Wednesday afternoon, the Atlanta Fund Appeals Review Board withheld its approval of the applications of both the Georgia Society for Crippled Children and Adults and the Crippled Children I eague of Georgia, Inc. to conduct 1951 fund-raising campaigns in Atlanta from Feb. 25 to March 25.

Unanimously passing the motion to withhold the approval, the Fund Appeals Board urged the two sides to join for a united campaign and offered the services of negotiating committee from the board to reconcile differences.

Soviet-Made Tanks Sent In Stream

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

By LINDESAY PARROTT

TOKYO., Nov. 15—(AP)—A steady stream of Russian-made tanks has reached the North Korean armies opposing the United Nations ever since the beginning of the Korean war, a spokesman for the intelligence section of Gen. MacArthur's headquarters asserted Wednesday. Since the organization of Kim Il Sung's communist "peoples army," to the present, it is estimated that the North Koreans have received between 900 and 1,000 armored vehicles—all of them of Soviet design and manufacture—with the prospect that they will continue to receive "as many more as they require" as the hostilities continue.

The official statement, made Wednesday afternoon at a correspondent's briefing, was based on the interrogation of more than 400 war prisoners, as well as reports from United Nations agents in the field. These, since the early days of the war, have carefully examined the North Korean weapons captured or abandoned on the battleground in an attempt to trace their origin and the date of their supply. The spokesman's assertion was made in sharp contrast with the earlier Russian protestations that no armaments had been furnished the North Koreans by the Soviet Union—itself a member of the United Nations—since the end of the Russian occupation of North Korea on the 38th parallel.

The spokesman made clear the figures do not include such armor as may have been brought to North Korea recently by the half dozen divisions of the Chinese communist army now intervening in the war.

All the North Korean tanks, as far as is known, have been Soviet mediums—T-34-85, the 35 tonners which now may be obsolete in the Russian Red army, but which did yeoman service from 1941 to the end of the war.

Hark the Sound Of Gustavus Adolphus

This is being a rawther severe season on Gussies, regardless of sex or industry. Just the other day I was reading where the Moran Gussie was being welted and whaled and out-wardrobed by Pauline Betz Addie. For $75,000, Bobby Riggs is getting what he deserves for such a folly: a big bust in a pair of lace trousers.

There's a Gussie in Minnesota, however, for which I feel great personal concern. Just as Gustavus Adolphus prepared to strike for gianthood in football, the world collapsed around the little Lutheran college last Saturday. Gussie A. was about to become the unrecognized national champion of the 1950 season. What happened was a Saturday date with LaCrosse Teachers of Wisconsin.

What was to have become Gussie's tenth win of a perfect season became the first defeat. Overnight LaCrosse, Wis., became Double Cross, Wis., to Minnesota. Hewing to the Biblical line, Gussie became as concerned about the one sheep that got away as the nine it had safely in the fold, and I, too.

Gustavus Adolphus is a happy little school that hides away in the southerly neck of Minnesota in a town called St. Peter, where the Winters are so mild it hardly ever snows more than twice an hour. Whereas St. Paul has gone busily about the business of becoming a city, St. Peter has gone just as busily about the business of staying a village.

The Giant of the Lightweights

Meantime, Gussie Adolph has gone about the business of intriguing newspaper customers from Juneau to the Virgin Isles. However, for instance, does a student body stand and yell for Gustavus Adolphus? They must have 30-minute halftimes up there to work in their cheers.

They've had much to cheer about in recent football seasons. You have to back off a few paces to get Gustavus Adolphus in football focus. You remember the days when University of Minnesota became an automatic national champion merely by fielding eleven men? Well, Adolphus has become just as imposing in its own set.

If you have searched through the weekly toting of the Fall unfallen the past five or six years, you have consistently come across Gussie hanging around the top layer. The team has been beaten only four times since 1944. It has won the Minnesota Intercollegiate Conference title so often the school has been suspected of paying its players. It can even afford the two-platoon system.

Until l'affaire LaCrosse, Gussie had whipped Augustana, Emporia State, Augsburg, Concordia, Youngstown, St. Thomas, Macalester, St. John's and St. Olaf this year. Reads a little like a Kentucky or Tennessee schedule, but the Gussies have been fighting in their own division, at least. They've done in so many saints they haven't got a chance of going to Heaven.

The Rockne of the Frozen North

Gustavus Adolphus became handy with its football dukes under a fellow named George Myrum, whom they like to liken in his own small way to Knute Rockne. He even died a tragic death as did Rockne. The players' bus crashed into the back of a stalled truck in 1938 and Coach Myrum was killed in the wreck.

A Myrum disciple named Lloyd Hollingsworth has carried on much as Frank Leahy has carried on for Rockne at Notre Dame. To him belongs the uncanny postwar record, four defeats in six years. Of course if the current runs as it does elsewhere, they'll probably fire him for losing to LaCrosse. Gross incompetence, Hollingsworth. You're out.

This fetching name is of regal ancestry. Gustavus Adolphus was the king of Sweden from 1611 to 1632, a monarch who made life bearable for Lutherans in his country. When the Scandinavians conquered Minnesota, without resistance, in the last century, they established this little school in 1862 and named it for their hero king who never threw a pass or sassed an official or made a tackle, but whose name has become a sports page steady.

The Swedes have repaid their king in full, for the Gustavus Adolphus roster is a parade of Malmquists, Swansons, Beckstroms, Ludvigsons and Yohnsons, Swedes good and true. But I still don't see how the cheering section does it. Lessee . . .

"I'm a rambling wreck from Gustavus Adolphus . . ."

"Glory, glory to old Gustavus Adolphus . . ."

I tank I bane stick to Yeorgian.

Gorin Loses ERA Crown

Charlie Gorin, who southpawed the Atlanta Crackers down the pennant homestretch, compiled the best earned-run average in the Southern Association last season with a sensational 1.75 mark, official statistics Howe News Bureau reveal.

However, Gorin hurled only 72 innings, short of the minimum requirement, and the official honor went to Marv Rotblatt, pint-sized Memphis lefty. Rotblatt, recalled by the Chicago White Sox at the end of the campaign, worked 253 innings for a 2.67 average.

A constant Cracker nemesis, Rotblatt also topped the regulars in strikeouts with 203, worked the most innings and faced the most batsmen, 926.

Nashville's 25-game winner, Bob Schultz, trailed Rotblatt for ERA laurels with a 2.68 average. Schultz led in shutouts with five and was only one off the strikeout pace.

Art Fowler, Atlanta's 19-game winner, also hurled 19 complete games, sharing this distinction with Leo Kiely, Birmingham, and Schultz.

Dick Hoover, who walked only 39 batters in 204 frames, had the best ERA among fulltime Atlanta hurlers with a 3.35 percentage.

Earned run averages of Atlanta hurlers, other than Gorin and Hoover: Fowler, 3.44; Hugh Casey, 3.86; Harry MacPherson, 4.28; Al Henencheck, 4.41; Don Liddle, 4.84; Nothe, 2.60.

Cook Brewed Good Medicine, Then Bad, for Auburn in '49

Mal Sparked Comeback For 20-20 Tie

GEORGIA'S MAL COOK
Rates Next to Parilli

By EDWIN POPE

ATHENS, Nov. 15—Georgia-Auburn time is memory time for old-timers.

And a Johnny-come-lately, too.

For no one's impressions of the classic series are more striking than those of mammoth Malcolm Cook, Georgia's young junior quarterback.

Cook has more than food for thought this week. He has a virtual repast. His part in the 1949 Bulldog-Plainsmen 20-20 tie was turbulent.

It was his first real varsity action after he had picked up splinters behind Ray Prosperi all season. He all but lost the game in the first four minutes.

He recovered with a presence of mind uncommon to neophyte college quarterbacks and right there began his rugged climb to present rank as one of the Southeastern Conference's superior T-men.

Georgia was favored to romp by the same overpowering odds as this year, when it shows a six-point defensive average against Auburn's pathetic three-point offensive average.

But Cook was involved in two disastrous pitchouts to Floyd Reid which resulted in an instantaneous 13-0 Auburn lead. He was yanked. When he returned he wiped out the earlier disgrace with emphasis, set up the second score with a magnificent 26-yard run, sent Reid romping through the middle with the tying tally in the final moments.

While sparking the comeback, Mal also succeeded in planting himself solidly upon the spot. He held his own despite rank inexperience, pitched two touchdown passes against Duquesne and tossed Georgia's only marker against Tech.

He started this year, too, on that spot. After a ragged takeoff, he has become a competent operative whose performance is measuring up to his almost fantastic physical promise.

Mal, out of Dracut, Mass., stands six-four and weighs close to 220 pounds. His co-ordination is far superior to that of Johnny Rauch, Georgia's great late-forties T-quarterback, and his record is approaching the same heights.

"Cook has applied himself so well that he is playing consistently well," Backfield Coach Bill Hartman said Wednesday. "We think he is on a par with any in the conference besides perhaps Kentucky's Babe Parilli, and Parilli has far more seasoning."

Through the Florida game, Cook had completed 30 passes in 52 attempts, only three interceptions. He has not thrown nearly so much as his predecessors, but his average is better. He called the game that sunk Florida—a straight running attack with emphasis on wearing down the Gator forwards, even though Georgia won on a pass from Cook to Walston, itself a gem of quick thinking.

Last year Georgia's completion record was a sorry 72 out of 200. Cook, with aid from Prosperi, has hiked the percentage to 51x102 and has averaged just as much on yardage—about 100 per game.

Georgia's coaching staff approaches the Auburn game with trepidation, mindful that the Tigers annually put forth their best foot against the Bulldogs.

Meyer Still Pilot After Buc Confab

By JIM HOLTON

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15—(AP)—A pleased but cautious Billy Meyer headed for his Tennessee home Wednesday night still skipper of the dry-docked diamond craft of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

His boss—newly named Executive Vice President Branch Rickey—signalled Meyer's retention at least for the time being by failing to announce he was fired.

Billy himself said:

"I'm still in the driver's seat.

"I really don't know for how long. Your guess is as good as mine. But Mr. Rickey hasn't even told me what his final decision is going to be—and he apparently wants me around a while longer."

The Mahatma, his son Branch Jr., General Manager Roy Hamey and a few other Buc officials packed up their sheaf of player data and headed for the minor league draft meeting in Cincinnati.

Meyer—summoned by Rickey on Monday for talks that were to determine if Billy would stay as manager—spent most of his time helping Pittsburgh officials and scouts make plans for the Cincinnati confab.

After a morning session during which the statistics of every draft-eligible young ball player in the country were studied, Rickey indicated he had nothing more to say to his manager for the time being.

Rickey said he won't reveal his decision on Meyer until after the major league executives meet early in December in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Meyer said he has been told to report at the Florida session along with Rickey's other aides.

Billy has one year to go on a three-year contract that calls for $40,000 a year. His 1950 Pirate array skidded into the National League cellar in midseason and remained there.

Billy has been reported on the way out ever since.

Lou Boudreau's departure from the Cleveland Indians brought speculation the shortstop-manager will replace Meyer. But Rickey denied giving serious consideration to Boudreau—or anyone else—as a successor to Billy.

Meyer appeared fit and somewhat lighter than he was at the end of his disastrous season. He wound up under a doctor's care suffering from stomach trouble and gout.

Said Meyer Wednesday:

"Health is no longer a question as far as next year is concerned.

"I feel in great shape. And the doc told me if I could take what I went through last year I could stand anything."

If Billy is kept on for another full year, observers feel it is likely he'll have plenty of advice flowing his direction from Rickey's private box.

Harold Roettger and George Sisler, two former Rickey aides at Brooklyn, reported for duty Wednesday.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Walston Owns SEC Pass Mark

Condensed from Constitution Wire Reports

Bob Walston, Georgia's cagy, glue-fingered end, has one of the finest pass-receiving records in the history of the Southeastern Conference. Walston, who has gained 1,174 yards and caught 11 scoring aerials in four years, and Vanderbilt's Bucky Curtis are the only SEC players ever to go over the 1,000-yard mark on pass receptions.

Walston nabbed three in 1947, 25, 17 and 11 in the following years, and has two more games to go this season.

Arizona State of Tempe still rates number one among major colleges in yards gained, but Nebraska is closing in fast. In three weeks the Cornhuskers have piled up 1,668 yards to zoom from 32nd to fourth place. Tempe has averaged 476.8 yards per game.

Sixty of the nation's top senior football players will converge on Miami in mid-December to prepare for the third annual Mahi Temple North-South college all-star game in the Orange Bowl Christmas Day. Andy Gustafson of Miami will coach the South, and Herman Hickman of Yale will tutor the North.

Gene Felty, big Tennessee defensive center, returned to the squad after a two-week layoff due to a knee injury.

Paul Bryant has found something wrong with his undefeated Kentucky Wildcats. He says their pass defense didn't satisfy him.

I. J. Collins, Lancaster, Ohio, paid $12,500 for a son of former Kentucky Derby winner Johnstown at the Lexington, Ky., Fall thoroughbred sales Wednesday. The yearling is out of Stepinanna.

Tommy Farr's latest comeback attempt found him before the British Board of Control Wednesday in connection with his three-round KO of Belgian Piet Wilde, Nov. 6. It was a non decision meeting.

Maurice McDermott, star Boston Red Sox pitcher, has been deferred a month his Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Selective Service Board announced Wednesday.

Joe Novak of Los Angeles was elected president of the Professional Golfers' Association Wednesday for the third straight time.

Ben Ruscoe, senior linebacker, and Ed Lechler, junior quarterback, will be out of the Mississippi State's lineup due to injuries when the Maroons meet LSU in Baston Rouge, La., Saturday night. End Steve Clark and Guard Gene Galey, also on the crippled list, are expected to see limited action.

Coach Gus Tinsley and his LSU Bengals sweated through a three-hour drill Wednesday, stressing passing and exactness in execution of plays. Halfback Billy Baggett and Guard Allen Hover, nursing injuries from last week's Vandy clash, missed the long session.

Coach Bill Edwards of Vanderbilt will likely try a new backfield combination against Memphis State Saturday in an attempt to put more zip in the Commodore ground assault. Fullback Dean Davidson has been switched to left halfback in place of Terry Fails. Jim Tabor will take over at fullback with Dick Foster at the other halfback and Bill Wade at quarter. Tabor has been alternating with Davidson at fullback.

10-YEAR CONTRACT

Yale Shows Great Love for Hickman

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15—(AP)—Yale Wednesday gave head football coach Herman Hickman an unprecedented 10-year appointment.

In doing so, it did what it had twice done before for Hickman. It voluntarily tore up an old agreement. The salary terms were not disclosed.

When Hickman came to Yale in 1948 as successor to Howie Odell, now at the University of Washington, it was on a three-year basis. But Yale liked Hickman so much after that first season that it made it five. And Wednesday the five-year pact, which still had three years to run, was supplanted by one which will keep Hickman on the job until Dec. 31, 1960.

"We are very happy," smiled Robert A. Hall, chairman of the university's board of athletic control.

"We have great confidence and faith in Herman, not only as coach, but as a man of high character and purpose. We believe he is the best-qualified coach in the nation to handle Yale football."

Equally happy was Hickman, whose boys still face what is probably the season's biggest test next Saturday—the Princeton game. "Everyone at Yale has been wonderful," he said, "the players, student body, faculty and alumni. Being coach at Yale is an honor I cherish greatly. I am exceptionally grateful for the trust placed in me."

Yale football under Hickman has forged steadily, although unsensationally ahead. Since taking over from Odell, his varsity has won 13 games, lost eleven. In '48 the Bulldogs whipped such major opponents as Brown and Wisconsin while losing to Columbia, Vanderbilt, Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard.

The 39-year-old Hickman, a native of Johnson City, Tenn., got his start in the game at the University of Tennessee, where he was varsity guard for three years prior to graduation in 1932.

O'Malley Favors Shotton As Brooklyn Manager in '51

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—The Daily News says "Burt Shotton will be back to manage" the Brooklyn Dodgers next season.

The newspaper, in a story written by Dick Young, declared that Walter O'Malley, who succeeded Branch Rickey as president of the club, "has just about made up his mind about that—and only an overwhelming public protest between now and the end of the month can alter the decision of the Dodger prexy."

O'Malley revealed his position just before boarding a train for Cincinnati for the annual major league draft meetings, the newspaper added.

The story says O'Malley "disclosed that Shotton has asked for a chance to vindicate himself for the failure of the favored Brooks in last season's National League race—and that he, O'Malley, is inclined to give him that chance."

BASS SEEKS TITLE SHARE

Teacher vs. Pupil On 3 Prep Fronts

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

By odd coincidence, it will be teacher vs. pupil in all three high school football games played here Thursday night when six Greater Atlanta schools end their 1950 regular seasons.

Bass, coached by Swede Phillips, desperately needs a victory at Grady Stadium over Murphy, coached by Max (Red) Ivey, Swede's assistant for two years before taking over as head man of the Eagles. The City League championship pace revolves around that one.

Coach J. E. DeVaughn and his Brown Rebels will match touchdowns at Cheney Stadium with Sylvan, composed of players who were at Brown last year and coached by Jimmy Green, 1949 Brown backfield mentor under DeVaughn.

North Fulton, under Freshman mentor Jack Griffin, will play host to Marist, tutored by R. L. (Shorty) Doyal. Griffin was an All-GIAA end under Doyal at Boys High before going on to college glory at Georgia Tech.

All should be corking good scraps. The Brown-Sylvan get-together reeks with natural rivalry stemming from the "brother vs. brother" angle, but the important one, of course, is the Murphy-Bass melee.

Phillips' Blue Wave can clinch at least a share of the City League crown with a victory, but the Wavers rate only a slight edge. The Eagles have lost to only one loop team by more than a touchdown, and in that one—O'Keefe 28, Murphy 19—the Eagles led a good portion of the time.

The Bass four horsemen—Tom Sanson, Tollie Williamson and the Hendricks brothers, Sonny and Bob—give Bass a most versatile attack, and Sanson is Region 3-AA's leading scorer with 61 points. Sonny's tossing and the snatching of Tony Dowd and Dickie Hubert also make them a threat in the air.

However, Elmer Kirk, Bruce Schubele, Madison Smith, Earl Alliston and Mott Morrison make up just as potent a striking force, and many feel that the Eagles have as powerful a line as the city can muster.

BLACK BOOK STUFF—Grady goes into its show-down game with O'Keefe Friday night in crippled condition. Richard Ringwall, 230-pound tackle, probably is out with a bad ankle. QB Don Reid will play but Bobby Silverman must do the punting. Reid has a bum ankle as has Guard Jack Duncan.

ELMER KIRK, who has carried over 100 times for a 5.4 yards per try average, has set up all except two Murphy touchdowns but scored only one. Murphy has outfirst downed and out-gained every foe except Decatur, yet lost six of nine—partially through bad breaks, injuries and lack of team speed.

Salem on Defense In Tide Practice

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 15—(AP)—Ed Salem, Alabama's ace passer, was on the other end Wednesday, shining in a pass defense workout in preparation for the Crimson Tide's game with Georgia Tech in Atlanta Saturday.

The senior left half was the outstanding defensive back of the scrimmage, repeatedly breaking up Tech-style passes thrown by Tide freshmen. He was operating at the safety post with Coach Red Drew's number one defensive backfield.

Quarterbacks Jack Brown and Bobby Wilson were playing the defensive halfbacks. Wilson, a sophomore, has been especially valuable to Alabama since he broke in as a first line defensive back. The 195-pounder from Bay Minette leads the Tide in pass interceptions with three, with 62 yards on runbacks. Brown has returned two for 11.

HELP FOR SAGGING TECHS

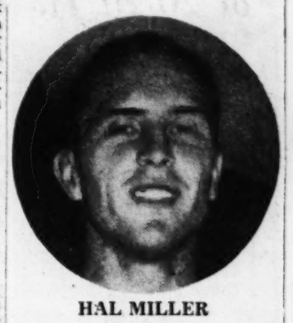
Miller Will See Action Saturday

By JESSE OUTLAR

Georgia Tech's sagging defensive platoon got a lift Wednesday when Trainer Buck Andel disclosed that Hal Miller, 225-pound sophomore tackle, will be available for part-time service against Alabama Saturday.

Miller, a strong sophomore link in a weak chain, was declared a question mark for the remainder of the season after he reinjured his knee in the Duke game. However, he has responded to treatment and should see action despite the handicap.

When Miller's knee buckled in the Louisiana State game, it marked the first time he had ever been forced out of action with a football injury. During four years at Kingsport High, his freshman season at Tech and a gruelling Spring session, the boy escaped without a serious mark.



HAL MILLER
Back in Action

But since the mishap in Baton Rouge, big Hal has seen little service. He viewed the Auburn and Kentucky frays from the bench, put in a brief sting against Duke, and sat out the VMI shocker last week. Needless to say, his return couldn't come at a more opportune time.

Tech's hopes of victory over the Tide toughies rest with Darrell Crawford. Coach Bobby Dodd, who has taken personal command of the offense, said Wednesday that the Jackets will fill the air with aerials.

"There's no use kidding ourselves," he remarked, "we can't run on Alabama's rugged line. So we will try to throw. Alabama has a stout pass defense, but it's our only chance of making a good showing."

Although the Jackets have dropped three straight games, the passing attack has shown vast improvement. Crawford, who has clicked on 45 pitches in 85 attempts, completed nine out of 12 against Duke and 17 of 29 against VMI.

Morale was exceptionally high as the squad romped through offensive and defensive drills Wednesday and, although victory seems beyond reach, the Jackets may make a surprising showing against the terrific Tide.

Dodd said Senior Halfback Red Patton, a Bessemer, Ala., boy, may be returned to a starting role at left half, but otherwise the lineup will remain intact.

Few tickets are still available, and the game looks like a sellout. Approximately 1,000 ducats will go on sale at the Tech Athletic office Saturday morning.

FRESHMEN IN PREVIEW

Sherrer, DiPietro, Gunn 'Pups' Best Prospects

(This is the second in a series of stories on Southeastern Conference freshmen, and freshman teams, in the light of their future.)

By GENE ASHER

ATHENS, Nov. 15—Some of those 26 sophomores playing for the Georgia varsity this season will have to hustle to retain their positions in 1951.

Several freshmen seem capable of qualifying for the varsity next year.

Coach Wallace Butts definitely has a future punting and extra point specialist who could offset the loss of Seniors Pat Field and Bob Walston. Bobby Sherrer, Langdale, Ala., insured the 14-12 frosh victory over Alabama last Friday.

He set up Georgia's first score with a 41-yard out-of-bounds punt at the 'Bama three. He kicked four more over 40 yards apiece, and converted twice.

Fullback Francis DiPietro and Ken Murphy, Halfbacks Conrad Manisera, Bobby Hall, Charlie Earnest, Monk Collins and Will Gentry appear ready, too.

DiPietro, perhaps the top back, is a bruising 180-pounder.

There are no fabulous Phantoms like Lauren Hargrove, now a soph. No Art DeCarlos or Derwent Langleys. But there could be by next fall.

A rundown by positions:

Ends—Robert Johnson, Huntington, N. Y., is varsity material offensively and defensively. Chuck Anderson, Jefferson County, Ala., is a good offensive prospect, and caught a TD pass against Alabama.

Tackles—Young, of Marietta, has shown most improvement. Riley, Childersburg, Ala.; Ford, LaGrange, and Slatic, Long Island, can improve the varsity roster. Slatic intercepted a 'Bama pass.

Guards — Strongest position. Whitaker, Tulsa, Okla., plays both offense and defense. A daily standout. Hard tackler, good blocker. Viola, Maynard, Mass., and Spadifino, Jersey City, N. J., performed brilliantly last week.

Quarterbacks — Bill Burt, Adel, constantly is improving. Jim Strem, Marinette, Wis., is considered a top prospect, but plays behind Burt. None of the quarterbacks now approach the class of 1951 varsiteers Mal Cook, Billy Grant and Zeke Bratkowski.

Gentry, Springfield, Tenn., is an outstanding defender. He plays either safety or sideback.

Left Halfbacks—Manisera, Lynhurst, N. J., is a good spot runner, blindingly fast. Hall, Mobile, is another speedster dangerous as a punt returner.

Right Halfbacks—Earnest, Cedartown, averaged 4.6 yards against Alabama. Hard runner. However, with six varsity players returning, he is not likely to see action.

Fullbacks—DiPietro, Ashtabula Ohio, and Murphy, Quitman, both have exceptional ability. DiPietro probably can cope even with the more experienced Fred Bilyeu, Dick Raber and Joe Scichilone, although he is not so versatile as Bilyeu.

Todd To Move To Des Moines

CHICAGO, Nov. 15—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs announced Wednesday that Charlie Root, manager of their Des Moines farm team, will coach for the parent club next year.

Root's place as Des Moines manager will be filled by Al Todd, who managed Memphis this year.

Fatandy Ran Last 12 Times But It Was OK With His Owner

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—It's good-bye to racing for Fatandy, the only horse with a perfect record for the New York tracks this year.

Fatandy, a dark brown, three-year-old gelding, went to the post 12 times in New York races. And no matter where he raced—Jamaica, Belmont or Aqueduct—he always finished dead last.

The first time out on May 22, he was 57 lengths to the rear. His finest effort was a 13-length loss at Aqueduct on July 4 when he must have felt patriotic.

Generally, he started last and finished last. A few times, very few, he displayed some flash early foot and galloped next-to-last for a dozen or so yards. Never for long. Fatandy liked the view from the rear.

Most owners would have retired him after his first couple of starts, but Betty Sweitzer, of Blairstown, N. J., insists it didn't much matter whether Fatandy won or lost.

There's nothing better than Kreml to neatly groom thinning hair or sparse locks. Kreml doesn't look the least bit greasy, sticky or gooey. No dirt-catching film shows through on the scalp. Kreml always keeps hair and scalp looking and feeling so clean. AND SO VERY IMPORTANT—Kreml removes dandruff flakes (more noticeable with sparse hair); it lubricates a dry scalp, giving it a delightful tingle. Change to Kreml today.

BUD McFADIN
He's the Boy

McFadin No Terror Off Field

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 15—(AP)—On the football field, he is big, boisterous and brutal. Off the field, he is still big, but he is downright bashful.

That's Lewis (Bud) McFadin, this week's Associated Press lineman of the week. University of Texas coaches have been wondering when the hard-blocking guard would cop the honor. They were a little surprised it didn't come before now.

Advised of his selection, McFadin fumbled for words and finally came up with: "That's mighty nice." Getting him to say anything more was like pulling a stubborn tooth.

But the 236-pound, 6-foot-3 senior finally was stirred to say that he didn't consider his play against Baylor last Saturday his best performance of the season.

"I was sure scared till Bobby (Dillon) made that run," McFadin admitted.

He shrugged off a compliment on the block he threw to help clear Dillon on his 84-yard punt return for the game-winning touchdown.

"All he had to do was run. Gib (Dawson) gave him a good block, and I got one right at the last."

Coach Blair Cherry shudders to think about how the game probably would have ended if McFadin hadn't made that last block.

Linemen nominated in last weekend's games included:
Ends—Jim Frank Gibson, Duke; Warren Virgets, Louisiana State; Jerry Deluca, The Citadel.
Tackles—Jim Staton, Wake Forest; Bob Miller, Virginia; Bill Clary, Appalachian; Bob Gain, Kentucky.
Guards—Bud McFadin, Texas; Frank Snyder, Lenoir-Rayne; Les Richter, California; Clyde Pickard, Wake Forest.
Centers—Sam Rubino, The Citadel.

Smith Tackle Seriously Ill

Ted Fowler, 205-pound Smith High tackle, brushed elbows with the Grim Reaper this week, and his football teammates are so grateful for the plasma that saved his life they are going down to replace the blood at the blood bank.

Fowler had a "stomachache" Sunday. He was still "hurting" Monday, but went to a funeral in North Georgia. On Tuesday he was rushed to Georgia Baptist Hospital with a ruptured appendix.

Doctors said if Ted had arrived a few hours later it would have been too late. He was operated upon and still is seriously ill, but Wednesday night was thought to be on the road to recovery.

Doctors couldn't get Fowler to respond after the operation. That is until one of them started calling football signals. That did the trick. He roused.

Needless to say, Carl Fletcher's eleven, riddled with injuries all year, will close their season Saturday night against Roosevelt at Cheney Stadium without the services of one of the city's best tackles.

Mrs. Schnell Wins

Mrs. Jerry Schnell, with a gross score of 91, captured first place in A division of play in the Meadowbrooks Country Club women's weekly play day event Wednesday. Marian Thayer and Sing Kimble finished first in B and C divisions, respectively.

THE WILLIAMSON WAY:

Georgia To Trip Auburn, Tide To Roll Over Tech

By PAUL B. WILLIAMSON

Georgia is a clear favorite to win, and Tech is fated to lose come Saturday afternoon, according to the Williamson system. Going by the chart, the Bulldogs are far superior to Auburn's Plainsmen, and the Crimson Tide should not have too much trouble with Tech.

The undefeated elevens are rated to continue their winning ways. The system predicts victories for California, Army, Oklahoma, Princeton, Kentucky and Clemson.

The overall record for the system is 82.3 percent correct predictions. Last week's mark was 89.3 percent.

Tigers' Tucker Ill With Flu

By BILL BECKWITH
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 15—Auburn's battered Tigers received another blow Wednesday when Quarterback Bill Tucker came down with influenza.

Trainers reported there was only a slight chance that Tucker, reserve signal caller, would recover in time to face Georgia in Saturday's traditional struggle at Columbus.

Meanwhile, Coach Earl Brown thinks he has a replacement for Guard Jim Brooks in Bobby Rhed, an All-American prep star from McComb, Miss. Rhed has been elevated to a starting role, and looks as if he'll be able to plug the gap which was created when Brooks was dropped from school.

Halfback Bill Davis reeled off long runs Wednesday as the varsity ripped reserves in a long offensive session and Brown intimated that his Tigers will fill the air with passes against the Bulldogs. Special emphasis was devoted to the aerial game, with Quarterback Allan Parks, Dwight Hitt and Dudley Spence doing the pitching.

The Auburn head man rates Georgia on par with Tulane, which thumped the Plainsmen, 28-0. "Their record speaks for itself," he said. "We have had a week's rest and our squad is in fair shape. That is, what's left of it."

Royal Castle Sets World Record in Daingerfield

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—J. M. Seider's Royal Castle won the $24,100 Daingerfield Handicap Wednesday in new world record time for the two miles and one-sixteenth, as the New York racing season ended at Jamaica. Flying Missel was second with Bit O'Fate, third. The new record was 3:30 2/5.

Royal Castle, given a perfect ride by Ted Atkinson took the lead near the top of the stretch and romped home.

Maroons Toppled From Rushing Defense Perch

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—Mississippi State is an ex-champion in football defense after last Saturday's joust with mighty Kentucky.

The Mississippi lads yielded only 903 yards in six previous games. Then along came Kentucky. The Wildcats ripped off 409 yards by land and air during the afternoon.

Now Mississippi State is No. 6 on the list compiled by the NCAA's service bureau.

Wyoming inherited the No. 1 position in total defense while smothering Brigham Young, 48-0. The figures for Wyoming's opponents is 1,339 yards gained in 8 games, an average of 167.4.

Second place goes to Wake Forest with a 169.7 yard average yield. Kentucky is third with 176.0 followed by Miami's 183.4. Army is fifth with 186.9.

Mississippi State fell out of the top 10 in pass defense while Kentucky's Babe Parilli was completing three touchdown pitches. The new leader on pass defense is Tennessee with 61.0 yards per game against them. Temple in second place with 66.7 yards has the best defensive average. Only 30.9 percent of the passes thrown against Temple have been completed.

Things remain the same in rushing defense. It's still Ohio State with 61.3 yards per game. Nobody makes much on the ground against the Buckeyes so they're the most-passed-against team in the nation. Wake Forest with 69.3 per game is next best in rushing defense. Then comes Princeton 70.4. Wyoming 83.5 and San Francisco 83.9.

Utah gets the best yardage from its punters with Milt Smith doing most of the work. They average 44.3 yards in eight games, slightly better than Colorado's 43.7. Nevada, Iowa and Baylor come next in order.

The 10 leaders in total defense are: Wyoming, Wake Forest, Kentucky, Miami, (Fla.), Army, Mississippi State, Washington and Lee, Tennessee, Tulane and Illinois.

Teammates Plan Gifts for Buddy

ATHENS, Nov. 15—Buddy Rutledge, Georgia's polio-stricken halfback, will have plenty to do at Warm Springs after Friday.

Coach Wallace Butts said Wednesday that the Bulldogs will stop at the foundation en route to Columbus for the Auburn goal Friday morning. There the team will present Buddy, a former Red Devil halfback from Anniston, Ala., with a television set which the players chipped in to buy.

Rutledge also is being sent the ball used in the Georgia freshmen's 14-13 victory over Alabama, autographed by both teams.

Arena Cage Loop Opens Thursday

Play in the Sports Arena Men's Basketball League will open Thursday night at Sports Arena court.

1
ASK A FRIEND to pour about ¼ oz. of Calvert Reserve into a glass, and the same amount of your present brand into another—without telling you which is which.

2
SNIFF ONE BRAND for aroma. Taste it critically for smoothness, as you roll it over your tongue and carry it up to the roof of your mouth. Then swallow slowly to judge its freedom from bite, burn or sting.

3
WAIT ABOUT 30 SECONDS to clear your palate, and judge the other brand in the same analytical way. Then let your own taste buds give you the answer. Just pick the whiskey that really tastes best to you.

HOW THOUSANDS OF FOLKS LIKE YOU CHOOSE CALVERT'S FINER TASTE

One of a Series of Interviews with the President of Calvert

by Danton Walker
Newspaper, Radio and Television Commentator

Danton Walker

NEW YORK, N. Y.—"What's the secret of Calvert's hearty, full-bodied taste?" I asked W. W. Wachtel, President of Calvert Distillers Corporation.

"It's no secret," he replied. "I'll tell you who determines that finer taste—a Consumer Jury of thousands of folks like you."

Then Mr. Wachtel answered some of my questions about Calvert's unique Consumer Jury:

Q. You mean the public actually selects the taste of Calvert Reserve?

A. That's right! We question people from all over America—all walks of life. There's not a professional taster in the lot.

Q. But how does this "Consumer Jury" decide?

A. Each person judges two Calvert trial blends made from our "blending library." He simply picks the one that tastes best to him. Last year we conducted more than 50,000 taste tests. This continues year after year, to keep Calvert the whiskey that tastes best to most people.

Q. And that's why you believe most people will prefer Calvert Reserve?

A. Yes. But don't take our word for it. We invite you to make your own taste test. We're confident you'll choose Calvert. But if you really prefer another brand, then that's the whiskey for you. Fair enough?

Q. How can people let you know the results of their own taste tests?

A. I'd like to hear from them personally. Just write W. W. Wachtel, Pres., Calvert Distillers Corp., Room 1321, Chrysler Bldg., New York 17, N. Y.

What's Wrong Now at Milledgeville?

By all means let there be an investigation at the Milledgeville mental hospital.

The immediate complaint is that sanitation there is not what it should be.

Since we were strongly on the side of the doctors in the controversy of some months ago, we think we have the right, as well as the duty, to say that for some time we also have been receiving apparently sincere reports that since the doctors won the fight they deserved to win, the hospital administration has become dictatorial and that intimidation of employees has become the rule. We hope that is not true. But it, too, might be looked into.

There is one great mystery. And while Rep. Culver Kidd and we have not always seen eye to eye on all matters, we are strongly with him in his present views of the situation.

Rep. Kidd says there is something "peculiar" in the fact an employee who reported terrifically bad sanitation conditions was fired, but apparently hoping to be hired back later on, "apologized for co-operating with the newspapers." (The Macon Telegraph had published this man's voluntary reports of sickening conditions.)

Has it come to pass that the State Welfare Department will fire an employee for revealing conditions needing correction?

Apparently the employee who now apologizes for his "mistake" had despaired of ever getting them attended to without making them public.

Obviously conditions were as bad as he said, since the Welfare Department officially announces, "We are trying to improve conditions as fast as possible."

As we said in the beginning, we have been, and are, of the opinion Milledgeville has been greatly improved. We have said often in the past that one of the strengths of Gov. Talmadge's administration is the splendid progress made at Milledgeville and at Battey Hospitals. We say so again, with sincere applause and approval.

But it is plain that if employees are to be intimidated and if the hospital ever comes to consider itself a little kingdom unanswerable to the public and the taxpayers, then something is wrong.

Just why should an employee be fired for doing his duty?

And why should he later "see his mistake" and apologize?

The Answer Is Easy, Mr. Green

Mr. William Green, long-time chieftain of the AFL, has said sadly in Washington that he cannot understand the Taft victory in Ohio unless "a lot of labor voted for Taft," as "must have happened."

That's exactly the answer, and the reasons for it are plain.

In the first place, with all due deference to Mr. Jumping Joe Ferguson, he was probably the most generally unacceptable candidate for the United States Senate ever nominated by either of the two parties . . . and this is true in spite of the fact he is an honest man of good character.

The more he talked and the more the public saw of them, the more they turned to Taft.

Secondly, the answer is found in what the foreman of a newspaper composing room, a hot union man and a long-time officer in his union, said, in explaining why he was to vote for Taft.

"I have read the Taft-Hartley law," he said, "and it protects me and other union men from abuses of those union leaders who want to tax and exploit their unions to build up their own political power, in and outside their unions. The law isn't a slave law. It may need amending, but is a fine law for union members who are not on the make, and a lot of us are going to vote for Taft."

That would seem to be the answer, Mr. Green.

The Red Cross Erases a Boundary

Directors of the Cobb County Red Cross Chapter this week decided that the chapter should surrender its charter and become a branch of the Atlanta Chapter. Details of the change have not been worked out, but the Cobb branch will be administered by a local committee under the supervision of the Atlanta board of directors, on which the branch will have representation.

Back of the decision to merge was a recognition by both chapters that thousands of Cobb Countians work in Atlanta and that problems of Red Cross administration and service no longer stop at the county line.

In our opinion, Cobb Red Cross leaders have taken a sensible, logical step. And they have demonstrated an unusual broadmindedness and an acute awareness of conditions in this war-worried world.

Disaster relief and aid to men in the armed forces are mandatory services of every Red Cross unit. Communities cannot stay isolated in an age of urbanization and atomic war. That is true especially of counties as closely knit as Fulton and Cobb.

The Red Cross merger voted in Marietta should be mutually beneficial to the units which worked it out. We congratulate the officials of both chapters on a practical approach to a common problem.

Mr. Truman's Healthy And Logical Decision

Mr. Truman's agreement to increase Republican representation on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee from five to six, cutting Democratic members from eight to seven, is a healthy and logical decision.

It ought to have been that way all along.

When the Republicans had control the committee was made up of seven members of the majority party and six Democrats. But the Democrats, flushed by their unexpected victory in 1948, overplayed their hand and reorganized the committee, giving their own party eight seats and the Republicans only five.

Obviously, the bipartisan foreign policy suffered. Many Republicans openly regretted supporting the two keystones of Administration foreign policy, the Marshall Plan and aid to Greece and Turkey, both of which passed during Republican control.

Republicans feel, with justice, that their victories in the last elections entitle them to a bigger voice on the committee and in the country's foreign policy.

Col. Summerall Deserves a Medal

We hold a tremendous amount of respect for Col. Charles P. Summerall, of the U. S. Army.

Colonel Summerall is head of the ROTC program at Harvard University. When the Army sent him a batch of comic books for distribution among freshman students to interest them in taking ROTC, the colonel declined to distribute them. He said they were beneath the students' intellectual level.

They are also beneath the Army's dignity.

We suggest a medal for Colonel Summerall.

THE PULSE OF THE PRESS

They Get It

(Spalding County Times)

Headline in Atlanta paper, woman's page—"Women Don't Know What They Want."

Maybe so, but they usually get it.

Depends on Which Bloc

(Roy McGinty in The Calhoun Times)

I have long been curious about Gov. Herman Talmadge's definition of "bloc voting." I think I am beginning to see what he means.

He says that defeat of the amendment Tuesday was because of "bloc voting" in the big cities. If the people of DeKalb County voted 3 to 1 against the amendment, that, according to the Governor, was "bloc voting." But if the people of Treutlen County or his old home county of Telfair voted 100 to 1 for the amendment, that was not "bloc voting," but the free expression of good, honest citizens.

In other words, a big majority against the Governor's scheme is a "bloc vote," and some legal means ought to be found to stop it; but a big majority for the Governor and his plans—well, that's different; that's as it should be.

Feeling the Shortage

(Pelham Journal)

The newspapers of America are undergoing a newsprint shortage of most serious proportions. Many things contribute to this condition, but there seems that little can be done about it. The price of paper has continued to climb until many publishers are paying more for the blank product than they get for the printed paper.

We have already used more than our quota for 1950, but we will get along some way. Our supply houses have asked that printers conserve every way possible, including the refraining from printing large circulars until the present shortage is overcome.

We're not crying—we'll make out some way. We're in the same boat with all the rest, both large and small; but our friends and customers can help us by concentrating on newspaper ads, and calling us early in the week.

This condition is general and naturally since it is, a greater effort by a greater number of people will be made to remedy it.

No, we are not hysterical, neither are we proud possessors of a great amount of newsprint paper. But even this is better than being sent home from Korea, all draped up in a United States flag.

Will We Learn?

(Gainesville Daily Times)

Secretary of the Army Frank Pace tells us now that a mere 700 U. S. soldiers fought to hold the line in the first bitter delaying action against the North Koreans.

We all knew our forces were small and ill-equipped, but few of us probably imagined the defenders were that scant in number. Pace said that only a relative handful of the original 700 are alive today to recount their terrible ordeal.

The full story these men can tell should be unfolded for us here at home, so we may understand once and for all the awful price in blood and pain that unpreparedness exacts.

TV Here to Stay If Unions Say OK

Why, Uncle Miltie! Is that any way to treat your relatives?

What are the TV actors demanding, larger screens and briefer commercials . . . or a better-grade custard in the pies?

Seriously, this ought to put an end to the question: "Is television here to stay?" The union apparently thinks so.

Indeed, it'll probably be only a question of time now before the Actors' Guild will be demanding standby performers for audience participants on quiz shows.

Last week it was the threat of color; this week it's labor difficulties. In real life, as on its screens in the horse-opera twilight, television is just one thing after another.

Incidentally, in the event of a strike, will Cassidy have to change his name to Picketalong?

Of course, the threatened TV strike may not be without its silver lining. A lot of us Mabel Normand and Richard Barthelmess fans occasionally look back nostalgicly on the pre-cable days anyhow.

The performers may know what they're doing. But television could very easily become overorganized. What chance would they have of finding a sponsor for Kukla, Fran and Ollie if he first had to reach an agreement with the Puppets' Union, the Artists' Guild and the Dragons' Local?

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

A Case Where History Repeated

WASHINGTON—In a sense the Nov. 7 election results may be said to follow a pattern that has been the rule, rather than the exception, over a long period of years. That is to say, the party in power almost invariably sees its majority in Congress cut down in off-year elections, where no Presidential contest is involved.

During the past 50 years or more there have been only two exceptions to the rule, the most recent being in 1934, when the Democrats, riding the crest of the New Deal wave, actually increased their majority in the lower House by a few seats. In all other off-year elections since then the minority party has shown consistent gains, going so far as to take over actual control of both houses in the last such election in 1946.

So it was to be expected that the Democrats would see their Congressional majorities whittled down in the recent elections. Most political observers were prepared to accept that as a matter of course. What was surprising about it, however, was the scope of the Republican gains in the face of the unprecedented prosperity the country is enjoying.

Beyond The Republicans went far beyond what was normally expected of them. Not only did they make heavy inroads on the majority held by the Democrats, but they just barely missed capturing control of the Senate, where the division will be 49 to 47. A recount being demanded in the close election in Connecticut, involving the seat of Sen. William Benton, Democrat, could result in a tie, with the vote of Vice President Barkley required to give the party organization control. The Vice President, who is the presiding officer of the Senate, is permitted to vote only in case of a tie.

Considering the high state of prosperity that exists throughout the land, it is somewhat amazing that the Republicans were able to make the showing they did. More people are employed than ever before and at higher wages. Business is in one of the biggest booms in peacetime history; corporation profits are at the highest levels ever attained and the farmers are receiving peak prices for their products. The latest report of the Department of Commerce shows that the personal income of the people jumped to a record annual pace of $228,300,000,000 in September, representing an increase of nearly $3,000,000,000 over August. These figures attest to the prosperous times in which we are living.

Ordinarily, the party in power is the beneficiary of such economic conditions. People as a rule do not vote against an administration in times like these. It would have been less surprising if the Democrats in the recent election had increased their hold on Congress, rather than suffer losses.

Two Things In looking for an answer for the election results, political analysts hit upon two things that seem to offer the most plausible explanation. One is the Korean War with all that it entails. Wars are never popular, even those fought for defense purposes. The casualties we have suffered, plus the economic controls, the heavy spending and the increased taxes brought on as a consequence, have caused misgivings and unrest among the people.

In lieu of a better word, the other issue may be described as "McCarthyism." It is now conceded that the election turned to some degree on the crazy charges brought by Sen. Joe McCarthy, Republican, of Wisconsin, about Communist infiltration of the State Department. After a thorough investigation a Senate committee found the charges to be a "fraud and a hoax," as every sane person in Washington thought them to be.

Nevertheless, there was enough suspicion of the Department arising from the Hiss and other cases to cause the charges to stick with a large segment of the people. Republicans exploited the situation to the fullest. It was this issue more than anything else that caused the defeat of Sen. Millard Tydings in Maryland. He had served as chairman of the Senate investigating group and was falsely accused of whitewashing the State Department. The issue cut into Democratic strength in other States.

Minus these two factors, the campaign would have been fought out along less emotional lines. Democratic losses probably would have been held to a minimum, if there had been any losses at all. Otherwise, there were no vital issues that touched closely the lives of the great mass of people—no one question that seemed to extend from coast to coast.

The Future What the election results mean in terms of the coming Presidential battle in 1952 is too early to say. Events between now and then will probably determine the question. The most that may be said at the moment is that the Republican gains have caused a resurgence of GOP hopes, whereas a sharp defeat would have left the party downhearted and forlorn.

For Abolition

The Editors: Congratulations to The Constitution and Journal and to the voters who defeated the amendment for carrying the county unit system into the general election. I sincerely hope that the press and the public-minded citizens of the State of Georgia will continue to fight for the abolition of the system in State primaries.

The popular vote on the amendment shows, I believe, that the people will vote according to their convictions, but it also shows in a greater degree the injustice of the county unit system.

With a large majority of the popular vote against it, under the unit system it would have carried. I hope to live to see the day when my vote is worth as much and no more than a vote in Fulton County or any other county in the State.

Clayton. G. B. PRIME.

An Indication

The Editors: The result of the election on the county unit system shows exactly what the people think of dictatorial government and what would happen if the people were given a chance to vote on the proposed sales tax and other increased taxation.

With the present taxes taking approximately 50 percent of the earnings of every person and utility rates increasing almost constantly and the cost of living mounting daily, it has become a problem for the average person to live on what he has left. A 3 percent sales tax means that the dollar will buy less.

The old-age pensioners who do not get enough to live on would have to pay the sales tax out of the meager sum they receive, and that means that they would be paying tax back to the State out of what the State had given them to live on, all of which means that their allowance would buy less at the store. A package of coffee that is now selling for 83 to 99 cents would have the 3 cents more added to the already too high price.

The cost of medicine has gotten out of the reach of many people and this should be exempted from any tax whatsoever, since it is of vital importance to the health of the people.

Don't poke the sales tax down our throats without giving us a chance to say whether we want it or not. TAXPAYER.

Summerville.

'No Setback'

The Editors: Before you gloat too much over your temporary victory over us in the county unit system fight, remember how many times you New Dealers and Fair Dealers have won on other issues, but lost out nationally—this time when people waked up and found their freedom almost gone!

In this Georgia question, when we looked behind the curtain and found who was pulling the strings that made the enemies of the county unit system dance, it was elements of the same crowd which has fostered socialism and communism on us to an alarming degree!

It is not a setback for Gov. Talmadge! Far from it! What better lesson have we learned, could we have learned, than that which this election taught about the dangers in bloc voting?

Remember, too, that we hear other radio stations in Atlanta besides those you help control. You should listen and learn what is really afoot there in Atlanta!

Constructive Criticism

The Editors: The issue of the county unit system, insofar as it affects the general election, has been decided by the people. The election results proved the principal point of contention for both the proponents and the opponents of the county unit system.

Those who led the fight for the proposal contended that a few counties with large cities could control the State government under the popular vote system. This was proven. The majority of votes against the county unit system in Fulton and Bibb Counties alone exceeded by more than 2,000 votes the total majority against the proposal over the entire State.

The opponents of the county unit system contended that the rural counties could control the State Government under such system. This was proven.

It is a fact of political history that the present State administration won the primary election and the general election in 1948 and again in 1950. It is also a fact that the result would have been the same under either the county unit system or the majority popular vote system. It appears to have been proven that a majority of Georgians interested enough to vote twice selected Herman Talmadge for Governor.

He is our Governor for the next four years and the State needs some unity of effort for improvement. Constructive criticism can promote a unity of effort while nagging, dictated by malice or hatred, can be most harmful.

For Prohibition

The Editors: Once again The Constitution on its editorial page has lined up with the legalized liquor traffic. How I wish you would turn the force of your powerful pen, for it is a powerful pen, to help in the fight for sobriety.

We do not at all deny the presence of the liquor traffic in dry counties, but we do take issue with you when you say legalizing will control. A traffic can never be enfirely controlled as long as Satan roams the earth, but prohibition will do far more to control than legalizing. The records have proved that. With legalization has come such an increase in the use, and every evil connected with it has prospered.

"Neglect not the gift that is in thee. . . ." (I Timothy 4:14.)

You read the editorials and are impressed by suggested procedure for the common good. You go to church and hear the minister plead for concerted action on the side of truth and justice.

From many sources come powerful appeals for personal endeavor toward changing the world for the better.

You drop the paper, you return from church, you subdue the appeals and say to yourself, "But what can I do? I am but one minor chord in the vast symphony of life."

Yet there can go out from you a mystic, invisible force of thought and feeling.

More than we dream the total impact of what we are enters into the current of public opinion and public conduct.

Forgive us, Father, that we have underestimated our strength. Broaden our vision. May we gladly assume our part in Thy vineyard, leaving to Thy direction the fruitage of our labors.

Mr. McGill Joins the Fancy

I am disturbed to discover that Mr. Ralph McGill, my boss and good friend of long standing, has now joined the ranks of those who hold the house cat in high esteem. For many years, in fact ever since I have known him, Mr. McGill has looked with disdain upon cats. He was a dog man since infancy, raised with puppies, and he had a tendency to look upon a man who was fond of cats as being slightly suspect. There was, he seemed to convey, something sissy about a man who liked cats, a faint streak of lavender. In fact, I have ofttimes had my feelings hurt by Mr. McGill in regards to cats. I would come to the office bubbling over with enthusiasm about some exploit of my cat, Chester Junior, and Mr. McGill would yawn right in the middle of my discourse and turn back to his typewriter. He would treat Chester Junior rudely when he came to my house to visit. Chester Junior is very fond of jumping up on beds and getting his rest there, and Mr. McGill's vest, when he sits down, has an expanse roughly that of a double bed. So Chester Junior would jump up on Mr. McGill's lap and attempt to curl up there and get his rest, and Mr. McGill would seize Chester Junior by the scruff of his neck and toss him across the room.

Chester Junior would purr and attempt to rub himself against Mr. McGill's leg, and Mr. McGill would nudge him in the ribs with such violence that Chester would sail through the air like a football. It made for a certain amount of strain between us, but being in the employ of Mr. McGill, I could not rebuke him for kicking my cat.

And now Mr. McGill himself has succumbed to the cat fever. He went on a fishing trip down to Florida sometime ago, and there he made the acquaintance of a large yellow Manx cat which hung around the docks where the fishing boats came in. He said this cat was in charge of the dock. Dogs would approach the cat and the cat would take out after them and chase them so far into the Everglades that nobody ever saw them again except the Seminoles.

He said this cat was such a gay and gallant cat that all the kittens in that part of Florida had the same stub tails and the same arrogant swagger. Mr. McGill became a member, in spirit, of the fancy. He wrote a most enthralling piece about this cat and expressed the wish that he had a similar cat.

And then the cats began to arrive. A lady sent Mr. McGill a small black cat which was not a pure Manx cat, but it carried its backside way up in the air like a rabbit, and it had a stub tail, indicating that its great-great-great-grandfather was probably a Manx cat. And then another lady wrote Mr. McGill that she was sending him a cream-colored Manx kitten that was of such noble ancestry that it had no tail at all. She was going to enter this kitten in the Cat Show down at the Auditorium Nov. 25 and 26 and after the show she was presenting this kitten to Mr. McGill.

And now Mr. McGill has become so fond of cats that I expect him to start picking his cats up and cuddling them, and talking baby talk to them, like the ladies at the cat show do with their cats. He comes into the office in the morning to report that this black cat at his house is the smartest cat he ever saw.

He talks at great length about this cat, and to repay him for past unkindnesses I yawn in the middle of his discourse and turn back to my typewriter. But he is just like all cat folks. He does not seem to notice that you are not interested in the exploits of his cat.

Mr. McGill is particularly interested in the Manx cat. He thinks the Manx cat is the greatest fighting cat there is. The Manx cat is a tough cat, he says, that swam ashore to the Isle of Man when the Spanish Armada was wrecked. He says the Manx cat was tougher than the Spanish sailors, because the sailors did not swim ashore, but the cats did.

I do not resent the fact that Mr. McGill has become fond of cats. But I am little disturbed about him entering his cat in the cat show in competition with my cat, Chester Junior. If he goes swaggering around down there bragging about what a fighting cat his cat is, my cat Chester Junior is going to take umbrage at this and the first time he catches Mr. McGill's Manx cat out he is going to maul Mr. McGill's cat severely.

There is nothing in the journalism books which says what a newspaperman should do if his cat whips the editor's cat, but if Mr. McGill is truly imbued with the affection for his cat that most cat owners feel for their felines, there is going to be trouble. I have seen ladies at the cat show get huffy with each other just because one of them had a cat that went "phhhhtttt" at the other one's cat. They would glare at each other through their spectacles and breathe heavily through their noses. I am afraid if my cat whips Mr. McGill's cat, it may have a disastrous effect on my career in journalism. We will just have to wait and see.

CHANNING COPE

'Come to See Us Anytime'

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—"Come to see us," I said to the Autauga crimson clover enthusiasts as we were parting from them at Prattville in Alabama. "Come to see us, anytime."

"You'd better be careful about asking folks to come and see you anytime," warned Kudzu (R. Y.) Bailey, "you might have the same experience as the Alabama farmer." "How was that?" we asked. "It's a long story," says Kudzu Bailey, "but maybe it will serve as a warning to you, so I'll tell it.'

Catfish Tale "A farmer had been in convention with other farmers and he kept telling them about the enormous catfish he had been catching in the Alabama River, and after he had kept at it for a while and the size of the catfish had gotten up to the length of a good-sized canoe, a listener said to the story teller, 'If you don't look out, you're going to wake up some fine morning and I'll be standing in your front yard waiting to catch some of them catfish with you.' 'Come anytime,' says the catfish farmer, 'come anytime.'

"Well, one morning next Spring the farmer was hitched up and ready to start his year's plowing when a car drove up and there was the invitee. 'I'd love to go with you,' says the farmer, 'but you can see what I'm up against. I'm starting to do my first plowing and I'm running late.' 'Never mind that,' says the visitor, 'we'll hire a man to do your plowing today and we'll go catfishing.'

"And so they did. 'And now, let's go,' says the man. 'We ain't got no hook,' says the farmer. 'I got plenty of hooks,' says the man. 'Not the kind for our catfish,' says the farmer. 'What kind do we need?' 'They got to be special made.' So they went to the blacksmith and got a hook made. One about the size of a butcher's meat hook.

"'Let's go,' says the man. 'We ain't got no line,' says the farmer. 'I got plenty of line.' 'Not the right kind.' 'What is the right kind?' 'A roll of new plowline.' So they got the plowline. 'Let's go,' says the man. 'We ain't got no bait,' says the farmer. 'What do you use?' 'A big fat Dominecker hen.'

Mule Team "They strung the luckless hen on the enormous hook and the man hauled off to throw the bait in the Alabama River. 'Hold on,' says the farmer, 'you're fixing to get yourself drowned. Tie that line to that tree. One of them fish will pull you in the river.' The visitor r'ared back and threw the hen, hook and line into the river, there was a kerplop and an enormous catfish went off with it. Green leaves began to fall from the tree as the catfish r'ared and pitched. When the fish was worn out the two men hitched a pair of mules to the line and pulled the catfish up on the bank.

"Later on the farmer says to a friend, 'You know what? If that catfish hadn't grabbed that hook when it did, that man would have always thought I was a liar.'"

Tax Proposals Are in Line

The State's tax revisionists have agreed on a shaking up of the State's harum-scarum tax structure with the end view the extraction of more money from Georgia's citizens. A sales tax is the prime base for this maneuver, and sights are set on additional income of $60,000,000 annually. Putting this much more money in Capitol coffers eventually will give, after some nuisance tax deletions, an over-all governmental income of around $170,000,000 to $175,000,000 per year. These tax people, of course, are dealing in a thankless job. Higher taxes have never won any popularity polls, but most of the citizens of Georgia are well aware of the shortcomings of their government induced because of shortage of operating funds. The earlier report of the Tax Revision Committee handed to the past session of the Legislature pointed out the need for more money, but didn't get around to advocating a specific program of total revision. Nevertheless, the report was quite realistic in stating the needs:

"The Tax Revision Committee believes that the State should undertake the services it has expressed itself as wanting and needing. These services are not only valuable in themselves but they mean enlarged opportunities for our children and our children's children through better health, better training and all that makes for the good life.

"The Committee believes that the people will be willing to pay for these services and that they will be willing to shoulder any additional tax burden that may be found to be necessary after the economies proposed are effected and after they are assured that our tax laws are equitably and effectively enforced and administered."

The Tax Revision Committee has pointed out that Georgia's tax effort is in many instances below that of its Southern neighbors when measured with such yardsticks as per capita income, total sales and such.

There is yet another measuring device which indicates the State's government is getting short-changed in its efforts to serve the citizenry.

Here in Georgia nonfarm employment is at an all-time high, exceeding even the days of World War II. Such employment in September was 805,900, and that total was third among the States in the Southern region. Only Texas and North Carolina had more people working in manufacturing and companion enterprises.

With this in mind, we find that Georgia prosperity as reflected in the number of persons employed in industry is not correspondingly portrayed in State tax income, now running about $115,000,000 per year.

In Louisiana, State taxes in 1948 totaled $142,319,000, considerably more than Georgia's total, yet the Bayou State in August of this year showed only 534,000 persons in nonfarm employment, far less than Georgia's record total.

North Carolina, with 871,600 persons on its nonfarm employment list, showed in 1948 a total tax take of $195,394,000. That State's income, as measured against the number of persons at work in manufacturing, is far removed from Georgia's though the industry index is comparable.

Tennessee in August had 725,800 persons employed in nonfarm enterprises. The 1948 tax total was $131,328,000.

A State's resources aren't completely shown, naturally, in the total of persons in manufacturing, but that is an index of the economic well-being. On that basis, the Legislature can proceed with the recommended changes and have no overbearing fear of getting out of line with the tax patterns of Georgia's more progressive neighbors.

Within the AP Household

Having questioned the honesty of much of our Washington journalism, I call attention to a recent development within the household of the Associated Press. Charles A. Hazen, managing editor of The Shreveport Times, has written a long, vigorous indictment of the AP's treatment of a number of stories involving Communism and the Democratic Administration. He also called attention to the possibilities of professional cowardice on the part of editors who are under the gun in their relations with the Newspaper Guild, which is a part of the CIO. The guild, from its very beginning, has been notoriously infested with Communists. Their influence is not dominant at this writing, but it is pertinent to say that the guild has never acknowledged the dishonesty of its denials of Communism in its high councils at the time when this condition was most flagrant.

The domestic news committee of the AP Managing Editors Association weighed Mr. Hazen's communication and rejected it with a message intended to be a rebuttal. Mr. Hazen is a member of this committee.

ALAN GOULD, assistant general manager and executive editor of the AP, in answer to an inquiry, said the AP had not at that time carried any mention of this situation on its wires because, in the judgment of the AP, it was not news.

The controversy was, moreover, "so involved and mixed up with prejudice" that it would be difficult for the AP to do the story justice.

Mr. Hazen has been allotted seven minutes to discuss his contentions before the annual meeting of the AP Managing Editors in Atlanta this week.

The Hazen survey is entitled, "Documentation and Comment on Leftwing Bias in the AP Report."

"This material was assembled to show that the AP report is flavored with leftwing bias which ought to be eliminated," he wrote by way of introduction. "Because of the large number of instances in which Communism and Communist activity are mentioned, the reader may think I am trying to prove that the AP is pro-Communist or was during the period of my study. This is not the case.

"By chance, the top political issue during the period of my study was the McCarthy case. Consequently, a story appearing to be pro-Communist might merely have been pro-Truman or pro-Acheson or anti-McCarthy. It could have been bias induced by the Newspaper Guild with which many AP employes are affiliated. The guild is part of the CIO, which is strongly pro-Truman, and has its own policies on many issues of the day. In respect to the McCarthy charges, the guild president said at the recent annual guild convention that they were a 'campaign of character assassination.'"

MR. HAZEN then stipulated that he realized that an overwhelming proportion of AP copy was objective and impartial and that most of the AP workers were "actively loyal to the AP ideal of objectivity." Nevertheless, even though the material which he believed to be slanted was the work of only a few persons, serious damage could be wrought by such treatment. He requested a study of "the relationships between the guild and the AP news report." Only 160 of the 1,700 AP papers were affiliated with the guild.

He then noted an evil which has been notorious within the newspaper industry, but rarely, if ever, has been mentioned outside the family circle. This is the culpable timidity of newspapers which are fearful of the displeasure of the guild "bargainers" when their contracts are up for renewal. This wrath might cost them a great deal of money in wage increases or in losses due to strikes.

"I think it disturbing," Mr. Hazen wrote, "that some managing editors, whose paper have guild contracts, are hesitant to delve into this matter of the guild and the AP report. The Associated Press managing editors should not be influenced by the contract problems of a few AP member papers."

Mr. Hazen examined many individual dispatches and, in some cases, compared the AP's treatment with that revealed in the reports of other journalists to the disadvantage of the AP.

His opening case concerned the AP's handling of Sen. Joe McCarthy's detailed statement against the State Department last Feb. 20. McCarthy spoke for six hours and flatly charged that the Communists had wormed their way into the State Department.

Mr. Hazen wrote that the AP's treatment of the story was "flagrant suppression" and an indication that the AP had "adopted an anti-McCarthy policy, which was obvious in many stories relating to the McCarthy charges in the months that followed." He further reported, "Throughout my survey I have found the Washington AP unenthusiastic in its handling of anti-Communist news."

The charges, the rebuttal and the debate, inadequate though it may seem, will be made available by the AP after the editors' meeting.

Science Diet Helps Burn Stored Fat

Facts are such stubborn things . . . particularly the solid fact that all excess calories go to pounds! Somehow it's so difficult to visualize good, nourishing food as unhealthy fat.

Another unalterable fact, uncommonly hard to face, is that any food is fattening when added to an already sufficient diet. It does no good to figure, "I'll eat this because it's not fattening," choosing some low calorie food—if it puts the calories over the top of your fuel requirements, it's still fattening. Of course some foods are low in calories while others are high, but still it's the grand total that counts.

Perhaps you'd like to see what happens to calories that are not immediately used for energy. It's a scientific fact surplus calories, from whatever food source, tend to be stored chiefly as fat in the body. The largest amount of surplus fuel which the body will store as carbohydrate is only enough to yield around 1,500 calories, and this is stored as glycogen in the muscles and liver. This fuel is right on tap to allow you to sprint for the bus . . . ready energy to meet any demand.

But what happens when more calories keep coming? The liver has its full share, the muscles have all they can use . . . but there is always room for more on the waistline. And from there, the extra calories spread. It's easy to conclude, from figures, that the fat calories tend to pile on the handiest places, particularly those eaten late in the day when circulation is slowed up. At any rate, favorite storage spots appear to be the waistline, stomach and hips.

And maybe you'd be interested in knowing how many extra calories it takes to make a solid pound . . . roughly it's 4,000. That may sound like a large number, but it's easy to pile up that many in a few days—food tastes so good!

But let's shift into reverse. To lose a solid pound, you must burn in energy 4,000 stored calories. In other words, these stored calories are drawn on for part of your energy needs . . . it's called dieting. Scientific dieting puts nutrition to work to help you draw on stored fat without going hungry. How do you like this reducing menu?

LET'S SEE NOW

Paris Fashion Big Business

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

PARIS, France—(By Air Mail)—It is almost an international aphorism that French women have a corner on chic, a little special je ne sais quoi that sets them apart in the realm of fashion, but if it exists it is so subtle that it does not flaunt itself on the streets of Paris.

Pampered women mincing down the Rue de Rivoli tugging at a brace of poodles barbered as stiffly as a boxwood bush, are apt to be swathed in mink or sable, but they bear a worldly stamp and would look as right on Fifth Avenue or Knob Hill or Michigan Boulevard or Peachtree Street.

The busy girls who work in offices or clerk in little shops are honestly casual, no more prepossessing in costume than the thousands of white collar girls who rush out for coffee at 10 and 3 at home. Some of them are stylish; others are not, and here they do not seem to care as long as they have a few francs, a sweetheart, a bunch of flowers and laughter.

But fashion is a commodity as exportable here as tweeds are in the heather country of Scotland, and as such it is sharply defined, highly prized, jealously guarded . . . even subsidized.

The big openings are over, but the little Boutiques which have sprung up since the war, are blossoming with ideas designed to please the caprice and whims of Americans with a load of those beautiful things called dollars. Plush night spots, elegant dining salons and hotel lobbies at tea time show the trends that have taken hold everywhere.

The silhouette of the day is the tunic over the tight skirt; and at night the mermaid has the figger. Sometimes they get confused and forget what time it is, and the tunic turns up at night, hugely sashed over a sheath and the fantail shows up at luncheon in a soft woolen with a stole, so tight only an eel could move in it.

The stole is with us. It is darned near a classic. It sneaks in everywhere, big, little, square, long, fur, tweed, plaid, net, backwards, forwards or worn like a bandage for a broken arm. Pretty, too, and practical. Grandma knew what she was up to with her shawl.

There are lots of short dresses for evening, but you could never call them "little." Dior, for example, has a number in gold lame, built like a second skin, and worn with a bouquet of flowers at the waist and a tilted, flowered pillbox as a "complement."

The French call accessories "complements," and that is what they are. Examples are long black gloves with roses piled in the top, above the elbow . . . jewels on gloves . . . brilliant thin umbrellas . . . black fox cuffs on antelope gloves . . . platinum mink collars with revers for a plain black coat . . . cravat of white ermine on black velvet suit . . . square cape shaped like a poncho, bordered with Persian lamb . . . a circle of beaver on a fitted gold coat . . . skull cap of leopard, with gloves cuffed to match . . . watch in checked purse . . . ostrich feathers on tiny hats, obliterating eyes completely . . . wide black patent contour belt on emerald taffeta coat dress . . .

Colors are glamorous and beautiful . . . violet wool banded with black broadtail for a coat by Pacquin . . . olive sheath, covered with a purplish wool coat, lined with bright emerald, matching slippers . . . sage bodice, yellow scarf teamed with a bouffant white evening skirt, and a counterpart in slimness, red taffeta tunic over a straight white Grecian jersey skirt.

The chignon is around again in hair circles, though the most stylish women do not seem to wear it so severely. Newest looking in Paris was the long-haired, lady head, with soft curls on temple, waved top and braided bun on the nape.

New York, incidentally (with the exception of Faye Emerson, who says she gets indignant fan letters from her video fans if she leaves off her chignon), is turning to hair brushed straight back, with no part, the sides waved and brushed backward loosely. It has a flat-top, side-winding look that will take some acquaintance before it really moves in.

Night Life in Paris

With Maurice Chevalier singing his songs and "Annie Du Far West," which of course is our Annie with her gun, in full swing, it was our own fault that we plunged toward the Folies Bergere despite the lukewarm attitude of our Parisian friends.

The Folies has not changed in 18 months, except that Josephine Baker, the light brown toast of the marquee set, is gone and in her place are three hefty American Negro women singers called the Peters Sisters. They sing and dance well, and have the good sense to remain discreetly clad when the strip acts begin around them.

The finished product of these scenes is so uncovered a Bikini bathing suit would look like a Mother Hubbard. The audience clapped lustily, but a quick survey of the arena revealed no one speaking french at all. The Folies these days runs mainly for tourists.

Enjoying the Middle Years

An increasing problem of longer-living Georgians is how to make productive use of The Middle Years—those years between forced retirement and the age of physical and mental exhaustion. Harry Casey offers Constitution readers tips on making The Middle Years happy, active and financially rewarding.

"You say that age is a matter of how you act and think," complains a reader, "but isn't that a little vague? Exactly what is 'middle-age'?" According to Don Marquis, middle-age is the time when a man is thinking that in a week or two he will feel as good as ever."

Actually, there are middle-agers at 75 or more who feel very good indeed without hardening of the arteries or of the mind. If you think some of them are a little dull, they nevertheless find ways to be dull in a new manner. They don't talk about the past—but look forward to the future. Instead of being critical of friends, they enjoy such companionship.

If you are a Protestant, the idea of "going to confession" may not be attractive. But think how popular confession would be if you were permitted to confess only the sins of OTHERS—friends, relatives, neighbors, people you know. The elderly attitude is to be intensely annoyed by other people while never admitting you yourself are wrong about anything.

You like to judge but you don't like to be judged. And that, if it applies to you, may be at least one hint as to your real age. Faith without works is dead. The value of your spiritual convictions is indicated by their results in your everyday living. It is true that definitions of middle-age may be vague and far from exact. But if you can look into the mirror and laugh at yourself, you needn't worry.

Following a wedding trip, Mr. Colvin will report to Camp Hood, Texas, for duty with the Army.

The bride's mother is the former Miss Ruth Moncrief of Newnan. Mrs. Colvin attended Brenau College.

Mr. Colvin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Woods Colvin, of Clovis, N. Mex., his mother having been before her marriage Miss Majorie Noble of Clovis. He attended the University of Georgia and during World War II he served three years with an Airborne Division of the Army.

Young Rowdy May Need Affection

By ANNE CAIN

That rowdy young show-off in your neighborhood may be asking you for approval, to compensate for lack of love and affection at home. The child who is "always sick," or the boy who is called a cry-baby, or the girl who flings temper tantrums, all of them may be saying simply, "I need to be told I am important. I need to be liked and loved."

So much has been laid at the doors of parents in recent years, that people are a little apologetic about admitting that they are parents. When it becomes necessary to identify members of one's own family, the practice is becoming widespread to indulge in disparagement.

"That scrawny little boy with the peaked face," one mother describes her son at a Mothers Club meeting, and "The fat little blonde with the stringy hair," another says, concealing fondness with complete success.

Possibly children are developing an armor to go along with this callousness, but if so, it is an armor which could be dispensed with. Diffident youngsters, a little apologetic for annoying the world by existing, could be turned into calm, confident young people with the security of approval and backing from their own homes.

It is an accepted fact that children are acutely sensitive to their early environment, and it is from their parents that they get standards of approval and disapproval. If a family is close and warm, with praise given as freely as blame, and sympathy as outspoken as disapproval.

One more reminder . . . use CALGON in your own bath, for laundry, dishes and other washing tasks.

MARY HAWORTH

Young Matron In Conflict With Friend

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Even though I am nearly 30 and have been married for nine years, I have a girl friend that I don't quite know how to handle.

I've always had many friends, being in show business since my early teens; and I've loved them and have been loved sincerely. But my big problem is Angela—I'll call her—from London, England.

At first we hit it off beautifully, but she seemed to change when she moved away from her swanky hotel apartment. Now whenever she comes back here to visit us, she always greets me with, "You've got your new skirt on." Or, "You're wearing your best shoes." And the strange thing is, I'm not wearing these garments for the first time. I buy few clothes, but very expensive ones that I wear for years, keeping them at the proper length.

To top off everything, when Angela comes to visit me, she is usually wearing a new suit or coat for the first time, just to sit and play Canasta. How should I handle Angela? S. P.

DEAR S. P.: Apparently you and Angela are much alike in many respects. That is, you like much the same things—parties, good clothes, loads of convivial acquaintances, and a more or less continuous ride on the merry-go-round of Big Town amusement-seeking. Thus you "hit it off beautifully," to use your words—when you became neighbors in an apartment colony.

It has been my observation that some educated European women, confronted with this openhearted trait in American girls, tend to be malicious in reacting to it, especially if the girl is naturally attractive to men—without employing the continental artifice of "turnedon-" charm.

The best way to handle Angela, is to see less of her; and to take her shenanigans in stride, with watchful understanding, when in her company.

WED 50 YEARS

Dr. and Mrs. William P. Heath were photographed at the brilliant reception which celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday. Hosts for the affair were their nephew and niece, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Merrill, who entertained at their Nancy Creek Road home. Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., of Washington, D. C., only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Heath, flew to Atlanta for the celebration.

New Book Will Help You Plan Child Feeding

By GLADYS BEVANS

You may master all the psychological aspects (your own and your child's) of this eating business—thinking to prevent mealtime blues; or to cure them, once started. You may see that chair and table are comfortable and china attractive or cute.

But if you don't serve your children well-prepared food, well-chosen, and in tempting variety, you're doing a one-sided job; and you will be overlooking the one single factor that may be making your child an eating problem; and you a nervous, more-or-less, wreck.

This is an angle I have dwelt on repeatedly, but I want to go back to it once more before beginning my promised series on establishing desirable eating habits and attitudes in the younger children. It is because I have been going over what I consider the best book to date to help you feed your child delicious and varied foods, with full attention to nutritional values.

It is called "Food for Little People," by Hazel Kepler and Elizabeth Hesser, published by Funk & Wagnalls, New York 10, New York, price $3.75. Because I have not the space to go into menus and recipes in detail, I want to recommend this book.

JESSIE'S Notebook by JESSIE DE BOTH

A How-To-Do From Jessie's Test Kitchen: Here's a Breakfast Booster: toast bread on one side, spread untoasted side with marmalade; broil till bubbly.

I Go Shopping for Sunkist Lemons with joy. They're so golden, plump and juicy, with that delicious flavor of sunny tartness. I buy by the dozen and every day I find another dish that's better for a squeeze of lemon. When you add lemons you add health, too. Fresh lemons are the richest known source of Vitamin C, which you need daily, and they also give you lots of Vitamins P and B1. You can get plenty of Sunkist Lemons now. They're the finest! And they'll help you in so many different ways. With cocktail sauces, soups, meats, poultry, frostings, bland desserts.

Lemon Lifts: (1) Only with lemon is fish at its best. (2) When your salad needs new life—use a lemon. (3) To re-capture garden-fresh flavor in vegetables—add lemon!

Accomplished Gravymakers rarely depend on pan-browning alone for the deep brown color that makes gravy so appetizing. Chances are they use Kitchen Bouquet! Because—for over 70 years—both home cooks and chefs have prized Kitchen Bouquet as the sure, easy way to get extra-brown, extra-delicious gravy every time. Kitchen Bouquet gives gravy a rich, rich brown color—and its unique blend of 14 of Nature's choicest vegetables, herbs and spices also brings out gravy's true meat taste. It works thriftily, too. You need only a little Kitchen Bouquet for this real gravy perfection!

A Little Knowledge is a wonderful thing. For instance, just knowing about Clorox is half of good housekeeping. If I had to run my kitchen without this bleach and household disinfectant, I'd be lost. For Clorox is the fast, sure way to make sink, drainboard and work surfaces hygienically-clean; to keep dishcloths and mops immaculate; to kill invisible harmful germs without hurting surface finish, because Clorox is caustic-free, extra-gentle. The porcelain and tile in your bathroom, too, can have the advantage of this gentle care, while Clorox removes stains from bowl and tub, deodorizes and disinfects.

The famous Clorox benefits—extra-gentle bleaching and sanitary protection—make it an indispensable laundry aid. Why rub the life out of white or color-fast cottons and linens when you can conserve them with Clorox? Clorox makes them white and bright, it also removes stains—even scorch and mildew.

Cooking For Children doesn't have to mean "special dishes". Take breakfast. Young ones are happy with the familiar delicious flavor of smooth, tempting "Cream of Wheat". And the rich quota of food-energy supplied by this great American Family cereal is good for their growing bodies. "Cream of Wheat" is such thrifty nourishment, too. A generous serving costs less than 1¢. And with Enriched 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" you have an easy-to-digest main breakfast dish after only 5 minutes of boiling. With extras of Iron, Calcium, Phosphorus, and Vitamin B1!

Sweet Touch: Serve on hot "Cream of Wheat" per portion: 1 teaspoon butter . . . 1 teaspoon brown sugar.

BANKER ADVISER

'Money Easy To Earn, Hard To Manage'

By YOLANDE GWIN

"It is easier to earn or acquire money than it is to use it to best advantage thereafter."

Lewis Gordon

This statement was made by Lewis F. Gordon, vice president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, Wednesday night when he explained the fundamentals of money management to some 250 career women and homemakers at the closing session of the Women's Finance Forum sponsorod by the bank. He told them that money, magic carpet which covers every social and economic level, is a problem which can be solved only by skillful management. The average independent woman has one basic characteristic, he declared, and that is the willingness to work and thereby earn money.

"It is perfectly natural to desire money, not for itself, but for the things which it makes possible," said Mr. Gordon. "But if nothing is saved there is nothing to manage. The salaried woman seldom thinks of herself as running a business. The owner of a business takes money, puts it into materials, machinery, or commodities. If he operates successfully he shows a net profit at the end of the year. From these profits he can pay himself a dividend. The woman, or the man, who at the end of the year has nothing saved has had a year of failure. If there are no profits from the business—there is no dividend."

The speaker pointed out forcefully with words beamed not for minds of financial wizards but to those of a layman, that the practical fact is that few people really save unless they learn to do it systematically. The principle of regularity has been recognized in various programs and Mr. Gordon likened a bank to a large department store saying that there is a department for every dollar.

He also stressed the fact that as important as money is on the material side of life, there is an element which can often mean more than money. That element is credit.

"Your credit today is what you have made your name worth by years of honest living, a right dealing and the disposition to meet obligations promptly and according to promise," he said. "Your credit is a precious asset, to be guarded closely and intelligently. Used wisely, it can be a tremendous factor in your economic progress. Abused or neglected, it may be a serious obstacle on your path to material success."

Mr. Gordon said that the Chinese have an ancient proverb: "Men don't trip over mountains; they stumble over molehills." The important question, he asked his audience, is not, do you know these things, but rather do you practice them? In the final analysis they do have a positive relation to a sound economic existence and good money management.

Tea Honors Atlanta Artist

The Atlanta Art Association will entertain at a tea, honoring Robert S. Rogers, Director of the High Museum School of Art, and opening an exhibition of his water color paintings, executed on his revisit to Mexico the past Summer, Sunday Nov. 19 from 4 to 6 p. m., at the High Museum of Art.

Receiving will be Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hunter, the honor guest and his wife. Pouring tea will be Mrs. Edwin Haas, Sr., Mrs. Fred Reed, Mrs. Maxwell Berry and Mrs. Herbert Elsas.

Mrs. Louis Johnson, Chairman of the Junior League entertainment Committee for the Association, and a group of students in the Museum School will serve tea.

Process Decides

Not all housewives realize that there are only three basic kinds of tea—black, green and oolong. Each of these three comes from the same kind of bush but they are processed differently, and it's this processing that makes the difference between them.

TELEVISION-RADIO

TV Programs Put Beauty at Premium

By PAUL JONES

Back in the prehistoric days of radio and unhidden microphones, pulchritude was an art given exclusively to the movies.

In radio, a gal homely as plaid calico had a fighting chance with the beauteous babes for a stellar role on the air—provided she could turn on enough charm to turn the trick with the show's producer.

Sex appeal was a thing called "voice" then. Tokyo Rose and Axis Sally, a pair of flat chested gals whose faces would have fitted into a medicine ad., tantalized entire armies with their overtones which fairly dripped with S. A.

Dagmar

But, alas, those days have gone. The TV-clevage, the bounce to the ounce, the plunging neckline, have made voice appeal about as outdated as last year's auto tag. Haven't you heard? Teevee, with its photogenic darlings, is here to stay.

We had attached little importance to the infrequent appearances of beauteous creatures on TV until U. S. Camera magazine unloaded on us an envelope fairly bulging with bosomy gals from which they expected us to choose our favorite TV pin-up girl.

After perusing the pictures of such cuties as Kyle MacDonald, Faye Emerson, Dagmar, Marguerite Piazza, Roxanne, Judy Lynn and Eloise McElhone and a dozen others, we shot a wire to Betty Grable to either get on TV or kiss goodbye her hold on the cheesecake crown. These gals, who are competing in the magazine poll, are fighting a strapless war for the coveted title.

Confidentially, we voted for Dagmar in the body classification—(she has more body than anybody, standing six two in stocking feet)—and for Kyle MacDonald as the girl with the prettiest face.

YOUR STARS TODAY

General Tendencies—Money matters today can be confused that you will do well to avoid deals which call for drains upon your bank account—you are more apt to lose than to win. Otherwise, in friendships, home life or varied personal dealings, the chances are 50-50 that results will be good, particularly for the people born in the last half of February. Those who were born around the middle of November should watch their steps just now for fear of stumbling.

If It's Your Birthday—For the next 12 months there seems to be so much discussion about business matters legal tangles or family mixups that you will probably be ready to drop anything of this nature as quickly as possible. Stick it out until the end of Summer, however, because leaving the situation in the mist of Spring would only mean that you would have to finish up the job later on. Probably your finances will mount up to a better total than you think.

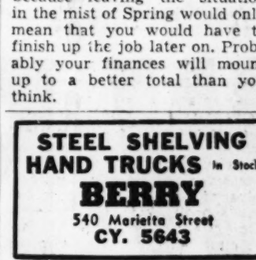
A WONDERFUL BLESSING TO MEN-WOMEN OVER 50

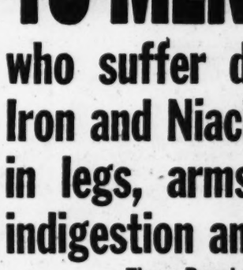
who suffer deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin, which cause aches and pains in legs, arms, back; stomach disturbances, indigestion and a nervous run-down condition

These People Wonderfully Helped Who Had Such Deficiencies

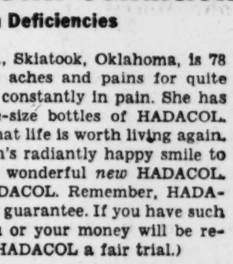


Mrs. Laura Perryman, 611 E. Main St., Skiatook, Oklahoma, is 78 years old. She suffered from nagging aches and pains for quite some time. Mrs. Perryman was almost constantly in pain. She has taken three small-size and two large-size bottles of HADACOL. Now she has no pains at all and feels that life is worth living again. One only has to look at Mrs. Perryman's radiantly happy smile to know how much she appreciates this wonderful new HADACOL. (Hundreds of doctors recommend HADACOL. Remember, HADACOL is sold only on a strict money-back guarantee. If you have such deficiencies—HADACOL must help you or your money will be returned. You owe it to yourself to give HADACOL a fair trial.)

Mr. Roy Fontenot, 310 Sixth St., Monroe, Louisiana: "I am a man of 74 years and for quite a while I was losing weight and everything I ate disagreed with me. I started taking HADACOL and in two weeks I was improving. Today I am a well man and I know HADACOL did it. I have been taking it for 18 months and will continue to use it. I cannot say too much for HADACOL." (Roy Fontenot is indeed a fortunate man to know about HADACOL. And Mr. Fontenot is a man of action. He doesn't go around complaining of feeling weak and run-down because he is deficient in Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin. Mr. Fontenot does something about his condition. He takes HADACOL steadily. As a result, it helps keep him well.)



Mr. Anthamatten, 4731 S. 32nd West Ave., Tulsa, Oklahoma, suffered from stomach distress for quite some time and was weak and run-down when he started taking HADACOL. He says: "After taking three bottles of the $3.50 size, I've gained 27 pounds and now eat anything I desire and positively have no trouble." (HADACOL gives such wonderful results because it actually relieves the REAL CAUSE of stomach distress (gas pains, heartburn, belching, indigestion after eating) when due to such deficiencies. And continued use of this great HADACOL not only gives continuous, complete relief but helps prevent such distress from returning. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days.)



T. S. Tharrington, Route No. 3, Rocky Mount, North Carolina, born 29th day of February, 1872. "I started taking HADACOL in the fall of 1949, at which time I was suffering from pains in my knees, often going up into my hips, which caused me a great deal of pain. I could hardly sleep or get the right amount of rest. After taking HADACOL for three days, I began to feel a relief from the above conditions, and after taking HADACOL for two weeks, I was practically clear of all pains and was able to get around better and felt like a new man all around. I now keep HADACOL in the house at all times, and when I feel any pain or soreness I take HADACOL for one to two days, which usually relieves the pain."

Get That Wonderful HADACOL Feeling Everyone Is Talking About

Men and women who are getting along in years and are suffering aches and pains, stomach disturbances, gas pains, bloating, heartburn, indigestion and a general run-down, nervous condition when due to lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin should start taking HADACOL at once.

HADACOL not only feeds such deficient systems with extra quantities of important Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin but also helpful amounts of precious Calcium and Phosphorus—elements so vital to help maintain good health and keep physically fit.

If you have such deficiencies don't postpone taking HADACOL even if you have to go and borrow the money for a bottle. Time waits for no man or woman. Start taking HADACOL today and soon you, too, will have that wonderful HADACOL feeling everyone is talking about. Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.

Bond Bids Requested By Decatur

By GORDON SAWYER

Decatur City Commission Wednesday night announced it will receive bids on an $889,000 bond issue voted by Decatur citizens Sept. 29.

Bids on the 2 percent bonds will be received up to 1 p. m. Dec. 5.

Most of the money will go to Decatur schools—$663,000 for new buildings and improvements. Traffic improvements will be given $79,000; public buildings, $51,000; garbage disposal, $49,000; fire station, $27,000, and recreation, $20,000.

Registration Closes

Wednesday was the final day for voter registration in Hapeville and Decatur. Both cities hold city government elections early in December. Wednesday was also the deadline to pay Decatur taxes without penalty.

Philosophy Session

Dr. Sterling Brinkley, professor of education at Emory University and regional chairman of the Philosophy of Education Association, will preside over a meeting of the association, Nov. 17-18, at the University of Florida, Gainesville. Others attending from Emory will be Granville B. Johnson, professor of education, and Donald W. Rogers, assistant professor of philosophy.

Tax Ruling Awaited

Judge Frank Guess, of the DeKalb Superior Court, Thursday may hand down a decision that will determine if Decatur's 1950 taxes are legal or illegal.

A group of Decatur citizens has filed suit against the city claiming the taxes are not legal and cannot be collected. Their suit claims the tax rate was set on an illegal Tax Digest.

Attorneys representing the city and the citizens group argue the case before Judge Guest Wednesday.

Citizen Traffic Observers Organize To Curb Violations

The Citizen Traffic Observers, a group seeking to cut down the number of traffic accidents in the city, was activated Wednesday under the leadership of F. M. Craft.

Four captains appointed to lead the organization in four sections of Atlanta will, in turn, appoint at least six lieutenants for their sectors. The lieutenants will name at least 10 observers each.

Each observer, who will be trained by the Police Department, will be responsible for reporting flagrant traffic violations which could cause accidents. License numbers of violating drivers' cars will be taken and turned into the Police Department.

The department will notify the car owner of the violation by letter. In case of repeated violations, the car owner will be notified personally.

Four captains of the group, which was organized by the Greater Atlanta Safety Council, are: Lon Sullivan, Northeast Atlanta; Asa W. Candler, Northwest; James F. Callahan, Southeast, and Ernest Cantrell, Southwest.

Yard Slaying Jails Dalton Housewife

Constitution State News Service

DALTON, Nov. 15—A 47-year-old Dalton housewife, who said she became afraid when she saw a young neighbor who appeared drunk, coming up to her front door and opened fire on him with a .22 rifle, is held in Whitfield County jail on a charge of murder.

Sheriff L. L. Vining said Mrs. Leola Hillman, 47, surrendered to officers at 6:30 p. m. shortly after Farris Parker, 25, employee of the Whitfield Lumber Company, collapsed on her front steps with a .22-rifle wound in the stomach. Parker died an hour and a half later at Hamilton Memorial Hospital, Sheriff Vining said.

The sheriff quoted Mrs. Hillman as saying that she was in the house with her mother, Mrs. Lizzia Carroll, when Parker tried to force open her back door. She told the officer her mother succeeded in locking the back door and Parker came around the house and was headed toward the front door when she shot him.

Printing Industry Rates Third in City

By BILL BORING

Little known is the fact that printing is Atlanta's third biggest industry, surpassed only by food products and textiles.

Now in the middle of a tremendous expansion program, the industry already has thrust Atlanta into the No. 1 printing spot of the Southeast.

The thousand and one products leaving the city's presses range from cigar wrappers to books and their markets encompass the globe.

There are 125 individual printing concerns in the Greater Atlanta area, ranging from plants employing hundreds of persons to one-man shops.

Their employees number more than 5,000 and earn total wages of $10,000,000 annually.

Currently, the industry is finding it difficult to find enough skilled workers to keep the presses rolling. Paper and material shortages, too, are causing headaches. But somehow orders are being filled, usually on schedule.

One measure of the city's stature in the industry is the fact that South of Chicago it is the nation's top-ranking machinery-distribution center.

Paper and ink supply houses also add up to a big subsidiary business.

Still another associated field making gains is book and periodical bindery.

Key organization for the printing industry here is the Printing Industry of Atlanta Association. Thursday night at the Atlanta Athletic Club it will hold its regular monthly meeting. Principal speaker will be Matthew A. Kelly, of Washington, D. C., industrial relations director of the Printing Industry of America.

LeVan Promoted

H. W. LeVan, has been appointed sales manager of the Atlanta Zone, Kelvinator Division, Nash-Kelvinator Corp. LeVan came with Kelvinator in 1945 as advertising and sales promotion manager. He served in this capacity until his promotion. Kelvinator has expanded rapidly in the Southeastern states, according Carl D. Taylor, Southeastern Zone Manager. Despite predicted shortages in steel for household appliances the Company plans to continue to maintain its relative position in the industry.

Unemployment Drops

The Government's proposed flood of defense spending hasn't yet opened up, but unemployment in Georgia has steadily declined since outbreak of the Korean war. Currently there are only 8,600 unemployed persons in the State, exclusive of farming, according to a fine barometer—the number of unemployment compensation claims filed in the office of Ben T. Huiet, Georgia Labor Commissioner. At this time last year there were 20,000. These figures apply to the weeky number of unemployment claims filed. While unemployment has been taking a dip, employment has been climbing.

Latest figures show 805,900 wage and salary earners in Georgia against 761,900 last year. The steady tightening in labor supply has inspired some businessmen to discuss the possibility of a "black market" in labor by June of 1951.

Slowdown at Ford

Curtailed operations at Ford Motor Company's Hapeville assembly plant have resulted recently from a slow-down in the Company's steel rolling mill in Detroit. Wednesday, Ford in Detroit announced the temporary layoff of 50,000 workers at the River Rouge plant. The Company said the slow-down in the steel mill is continuing and that outlying plants, such as Hapeville, will continue to be affected but it was unable to estimate the number of employees who will be involved.

Bank Debits Rise

One of the best barometers of business conditions is bank debits—or checks and withdrawals. When they are heavy, there is an indication of increased spending, a high volume of trade, and better business generally. Thus better business is indicated in the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta's announcement that Georgia bank debits rose 11 percent in October and stood 30 percent above the level of October, 1949. Atlanta debits rose 13 percent in October.

Products Display

A "Georgia Products Display" of furniture, sponsored by the East Point Woman's Club, will be open to the public for one week beginning Thursday at the Holt Furniture Company in East Point. Mrs. J. Horace Clark, club president, and Mrs. Cornelia Dabney Tucker, chairman of the club's consumer relations committee, said the display is part of a new club program designed to bring products of the State to the attention of consumers.

Crosley Plans Branch

A branch office of Crosley Distributing Corp., Cincinnati, Ohio, will open in Atlanta Dec. 1 with Thoben F. Elrod, a native Atlantan, as manager. W. A. Blees, vice president of Avco Manufacturing Corp., and general sales manager of the Crosley Division, who made the announcement, said this will be the fifth Crosley Distributing Corporation branch.

Profit Sharing Plan

Kenneth S. Gaston, president of the Distributors Group and Group Securities, Inc., here to confer with officials of Courts & Company, observes that psrsons earning from $10,000 to $50,000 a year are finding it very difficult to "salt" anything away toward retirement under the present system of graduated taxation. He believes that the comparatively new development of employees, profit-sharing and retirement trusts may be the answer to their plight. Contributions to such a fund are made by employer, based upon the employer's profits and the employees pay. These contributions are invested and the investments held by a trustee.

Transit Office Open House Draws Crowds

Trolley and bus operators, with their wives and children, joined the general public Wednesday in helping the Atlanta Transit Company to celebrate "open house" in its new offices in the Transit Building at 5 Forsyth St., N. W. There were more than 5,000 visitors.

The offices occupy part of the first floor and all of the second floor of the building. On the first floor Wednesday were pictures showing the evolution of transportation in Atlanta from 1882 and also an exhibit of some of the machinery which goes into a trackless trolley.

On the second floor are the general offices of the Atlanta Transit Company, with its accounting, claims and other departments. Officers on hand to welcome the visitors included Jackson P. Dick, chairman of the Board of Directors; Leland Anderson, president; John Gerson, vice president and general manager; Henry L. Taylor, secretary and treasurer, and R. R. Edwards, manager of the Purchasing Department.

Atlanta Transit Company has leased about 1,000 square feet of the first floor of the building for its Lost and Found Department and the check-in department for its trolley and bus operators.

Turkey Price Stable

If your Thanksgiving turkey is inflated this year, it will likely be due to stuffing, not to price. Poultry dealers report prices will be about the same as last year. In Atlanta the indicated retail prices are 59 cents a pound for large toms, 69 cents for hens. Small birds may bring a price premium of three cents. Dealers report Georgia's turkey production has increased substantially in the last three years and that the quality of Georgia birds has improved notably.

1951 STUDEBAKER LINE NOW ON SALE HERE

The Smart 1951 Studebaker two-door Custom Champion

Commander Series Shown By Studebaker

Introduction of a new Commander Series, powered by a a new V-type, 8-cylinder, valve-in-head engine, features the showing of the new 1951 models of the Studebaker Corporation, now on display in showrooms of Studebaker dealers.

In the Atlanta area these new models are on display at Yarborough Motor Company, 390 West Peachtree st., N. W.; Chick Barron, Inc., 121 Central Ave., S. W.; Cherokee Motors, Inc., 431 West Ponce de Leon Ave., Decatur; and East Point Motors, Inc., at 1210 North Main St., East Point.

Harold S. Vance, chairman of the board and president of the Studebaker Corporation, said that the new Studebaker engine represents an investment of $15,000,000 in development costs and plant equipment. The Commander Eight with this engine, he said, will place Studebaker dealers in a far better competitive position in the medium price field.

"We believe the new Commander will give our dealers a chance to build up volume in the medium price field comparable to what has been accomplished with the Champion in the low price field," Vance explained.

The new Studebaker V-8 engine has a rating of 120-horsepower at 4,000 revolutions per minute. The compression ratio is seven to one.

Changes in the 1951 Studebaker Champion include the adoption of centerpoint steering, a redesigned instrument panel and a steel-jacket-enclosed steering column and gear shift level on all but the custom series.

Studebaker's automatic transmission, as well as overdrive, will be available on all models as extra-cost optional equipment.

CITY HALL NEWS

Rezoning Proposal Faces Postponement

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Rezoning of additional property for business use at the intersection of Piedmont Ave. and Rock Springs Rd. must await a final decision concerning the eastern terminus of the northeast leg of the expressway.

The City Planning Commission Wednesday postponed for 60 days a decision on a petition to rezone property fronting 153 feet on the east side of Piedmont Avenue beginning at Rock Springs until the expressway row is settled.

Mrs. Martha Scruggs and Mrs. Elizabeth H. Davidson were the petitioners. In addition to the expressway matter, some commission members also wanted to know if it would not be possible to get a strip of up to 20 feet on the north side of Rock Springs Road for future widening purposes.

A delegation of residents opposing the rezoning urged that apartment house restrictions be maintained.

Commission members aversed petitions to rezone property on Boulevard Drive, S. E., on Humphries Street, S. W., on Leach Street, N. W., on Moreland Avenue, S. E., on Capitol Avenue, S. W., and a motor terminal at 47 Trinity Avenue, S. W.

The commission held for further study rezoning of property on West Ontario Avenue, S. W., and on Woodward Avenue, S. W., but approved all other petitions.

A special meeting to handle a backlog of petitions has been set for 2 p. m. Friday, Dec. 1, at the City Hall.

Willing Water at Work

Willing Water, that impish prankster of the Atlanta Waterworks Department, is going to work. He has agreed to wash the dirty linen of Manager Paul Weir and Weir's aides in helping collect over-due accounts. In the future a penny postal card, all colored in pastel green, will show Willing Water reminding patrons their past-due bill has not been marked "paid," and urging them to do the right thing about it.

Terminal Allowed

Permit for construction of a $68,000 motor freight terminal at 178 Miller Reed Ave., S. E., has been issued by City Buidling Inspector William R. Wofford's office. The structure will front 235 feet on Miller Reed Avenue.

Exodus Starts

The first move in a general shift of departments as a result of construction of a new $500,000 City Health Building adjacent to City Hall was made Wednesday when the Personnel Department began moving from the second floor to renovated quarters in the basement of the City Hall. It occupies quarters formerly used by the Health Department. In the general shift of divisions, the Building Inspection, Comptroller and tax offices will get more room along with the City Planning Commission.

Off to Dinner

Mayor Hartsfield and three other Atlantans left Wednesday night to attend the annual dinner of the Holland Society of New York Thursday. The mayor was accompanied by Bob Holder, Frank Etheridge and D. K. Vanneman. The party will return to Atlanta Saturday.

Corner Lot Deal

This is good news for Atlantans and/or prospective Atlantans who own corner lots. City Council's Water Committee has recommended that the City charter be changed to allow a 150-foot credit on charges for laying water mains along corner lots if the owner has already paid for water service on the other street facing his property. The cost of the 150-foot credit will be prorated among the owners of property along the second street who want the additional service. At the present time, corner lot owners must pay the entire cost on both streets although the second improvement may not be of any service to him.

Churchwomen Hit Beer Ads

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15 — The United Council of Churchwomen Wednesday called on its 1,775 local affiliates to protest the "frequently lurid" beer advertisments that are currently "invading" the American home via radio and television.

Asserting that it is "impossible" in some areas to listen to broadcasts of sports without being "bombarded" by beer advertising, the women's organization went on to recommend that every local and state council express its disapproval to the Federal Communications Commission, to program sponsors, to radio and TV stations, and to networks.

At the same time, the Council, representing 10,000,000 churchgoers in 70 Protestant denominations, voiced its appreciation of stations that do not carry beer advertising and reaffirmed its opposition to such advertising in newspapers and magazines.

In a voice vote on the action, only one delegate opposed it. She declined to give her name to reporters.

COUPLE UP IN AIR HERE

Aerial Acrobats to Wed; Girl Was Wounded in War

Two young lovers are literally "up in the air" over their scheduled forthcoming marriage Saturday in the Atlanta Shrine Temple.

Ralph, an ex-Marine from Minnesota who saw action in the Pacific during World War II, is a star in the Flying Romas team which has the star spot in the show. His bride-to-be is a member of the aerial ballet of the show.

Pretty, 22-year-old Maria (her real name is Peplowski) is as delectable and demure as the high school girl next door. But in those 22 years she has felt the personal tragedy of war.

Constitution Staff Photo—Hugh Stovall
LOVE ALOFT
Ralph Oyseth, Maria Peters

Five years ago she was rescue from a German prisoner of war camp after spending almost a year behind barbed wire. The offense that put her there: three years' active duty in the Polish 72d Tank Division, part of the vast European underground network which battled Hitler's armies up to the end of the war.

In those three years, Maria was wounded on three occasions. German bullets made targets of her back, legs and head. She survived 12 months in hospitals and returned to the fight before her capture.

Following her liberation, she married an American paratrooper but the marriage ended in tragedy when he died in a hand grenade explosion in Germany.

She came to America, learned to speak English, took out first citizenship papers. She worked as a waitress and hat check girl and did other jobs before her training with the Paris Ballet resulted in a job with the Hamid-Thornton show.

Five weeks ago in Toronto, she met Ralph.

"He swept me off my feet," she said. The next day, before she had a chance to get back on foot, he asked her to marry him. "We decided right then to get married in Atlanta."

Special permission from the Catholic priests in Atlanta was necessary before they could accept the hospitality of the local shriners and use the Temple for their ceremony.

Honeymoon? They'll spend it appearing as usual 100 feet above the ground at the show's next date.

Doctor Draft Speeded Up

Georgia's first priority group of Army physicians will complete processing two weeks ahead of schedule. Selective Service officials here said Wednesday while the Surgeon General's office in Washington reported that failure of draft officials to produce 300 physicians requested for Nov. 15 had put the Army's medical service under a "terrific strain."

Draft spokesmen here said Georgia's first quota, which the Army asked to have by Dec. 15, will finish processing at Fort McPherson by Nov. 30.

The Surgeon General's office said it is short 450 physicians now, even though 229 had volunteered up to the end of last week. Selective Service has been asked to produce a total of 1,522 physicians, dentists and veterinarians by Jan. 15.

State Lists Road Projects

For the first three months of the present fiscal year, the State Highway Department has placed 679 miles of Federal-aid roads under construction, the Federal Bureau of Public Roads announced Wednesday in complimenting the state.

Total cost of these projects is $30,841,000, of which $14,324,000 is Federal aid.

The Bureau said it had approved for construction as of Sept. 30 construction of 136 miles more of road at a cost of $10,780,000, of which $4,921,000 is Federal aid.

The Bureau said Georgia will get approximately $10,969,000 in Federal aid for roads for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1952. This is approximately the same it is receiving for the current fiscal year.
